Policy in the Twenty-First Century and the Shadow of the Past Robert Legvold,2007-03-27 Because the turbulent trajectory of Russia s foreign policy since the collapse of the Soviet Union echoes previous moments of social and political transformation history offers a special vantage point from which to judge the current course of events In this book a mix of leading historians and political scientists examines the foreign policy of contemporary Russia over four centuries of history The authors explain the impact of empire and its loss the interweaving of domestic and foreign impulses long standing approaches to national security and the effect of globalization over time Contributors focus on the underlying patterns that have marked Russian foreign policy and that persist today These patterns are driven by the country s political makeup geographical circumstances economic strivings unsettled position in the larger international setting and above all its tortured effort to resolve issues of national identity The argument here is not that the Russia of Putin and his successors must remain trapped by these historical patterns but that history allows for an assessment of how much or how little has changed in Russia s approach to the outside world and creates a foundation for identifying what must change if Russia is to evolve A truly unique collection this volume utilizes history to shed crucial light on Russia s complex occasionally inscrutable relationship with the world In so doing it raises the broader issue of the relationship of history to the study of contemporary foreign policy and how these two enterprises might be better joined Carbon Cycle in the Russian Arctic Seas Alexander Vetrov,Evgeny Romankevich,2013-03-09 At present studies of the Arctic Basin are of particular importance to the world scientific community due to the strong influence of this region on the global climate its enormous mineral and hydrocarbon resources the poor knowledge about the polar biosphere and the growing anthropogenic pollution of the Arctic Gramberg et al 2000 Kluev 2000 Therefore the forthcoming century is sometimes justly named the century of the Arctic Global climatic changes attract the close attention of scientists from all over the world The prevalent concept that climate warming is a minor positive anomaly in the planetary temperature is documented by the analyses of hundreds of thousands of deep sea samples Forecasts predict a tendency to even stronger warming over the next decades Watson et al 1998 The climate warming is accompanied by a reduction in the area and thickness of the ice cover a negative balance of the Arctic glaciers a northward migration of the arboreal front an increase in the permafrost temperature in the Russian Arctic and a tendency to the growth of biological productivity Serreze et al 2000 Morison et al 2001 Carbon cycling strongly affects the earth's climate its study in the Arctic Seas of Russia is an essential link in the solution of the global climate change problem

Russia and the Post 2012 Climate Regime Anna Korppoo, George Sakonov, Oleg Lugovoy, 2010-10-01 This report analyzes the development trends and conditions of the Russian economy specifically its energy sector It also reviews the projections of carbon emissions by 2020 and beyond in the context of the Russian government's scenarios of economic development The second section of the report focuses on Russia's position in the negotiation process on a post 2012 climate regime including the emission limitation pledge carry over of the surplus of assigned amount units AAU beyond 2012 and the forest carbon sinks The report is written by Dr George Safonov State University Higher School of Economics Russian Environmental Defense Fund and Dr Oleg Lugovoy Russian Environmental Defense Fund and Dr Anna Korppoo the Finnish Institute of International Affairs The Nordic Ministers of Environments established the Nordic COP 15 Group early in 2008 In January 2010 the group was renamed to the Nordic ad hoc Group on Global Climate Negotiations The main tasks of the group are to prepare reports and studies conduct relevant meetings and organize conferences supporting the Nordic negotiators in the UN climate negotiations The overall aim of the group is to contribute to a global and comprehensive agreement on climate change with ambitious emission reduction commitments
