Reading Women's Worlds from Christine de Pizan to Doris Lessing S. Jansen, 2011-04-25 In this work Jansen explores a recurring theme in writing by women the dream of finding or creating a private and secluded retreat from the world of men These imagined women's worlds may be very small a single room for example but many women writers are much more ambitious fantasizing about cities even entire countries created for and inhabited exclusively by women S. Slavenka Drakulic, 2001-01-01 S may very well be one of the strongest books about war you will ever read The writing is taut precise and masterful The Philadelphia Enquirer Set in 1992 during the height of the Bosnian war S reveals one of the most horrifying aspects of any war the rape and torture of civilian women by occupying forces S is the story of a Bosnian woman in exile who has just given birth to an unwanted child one without a country a name a father or a language Its birth only reminds her of an even more grueling experience being repeatedly raped by Serbian soldiers in the women's room of a prison camp Through a series of flashbacks S relives the unspeakable crimes she has endured and in telling her story timely strangely compelling and ultimately about survival depicts the darkest side of human nature during wartime This Was

The Geopolitics of Memory James Riding, 2019-09-30 In this daring experiment in ethnographic place writing cultural geographer James Riding aims to get at the heart of post conflict Bosnia showing the past alongside the present it created via a series of journeys and through the retelling of memories The juxtaposition between the siege of Sarajevo and supersonic metal the refugee journey and the aid worker travelling in the other direction the desperation and fury to change the present yet being stuck with many of the ethno nationalist politicians and politics of the past it is a journey to Bosnia as it is understood today in popular discourse a war torn place defined by ethnic conflict yet also a journey to deconstruct and reveal more than ancient ethnic hatreds portrayed on television screens across the globe from 1992 to 1995 Heavy with the weight of history on the one hand and an inspirational place with radical emancipatory politics on the other it is only through innovative storytelling that one can attempt to give a sense of what Bosnia itself is like in words for those who have never been and most importantly for those who are from there

Architectures of Violence Kate Ferguson, 2022-05-01 Paramilitary or irregular units have been involved in practically every case of identity based mass violence in the modern world but detailed analysis of these dynamics is rare Exploring the case of former Yugoslavia the genocides in Rwanda and Darfur and the ongoing violence in Syria Kate Ferguson exposes the relationships between paramilitaries state commands local communities and organized crime She presents these architectures of violence as a way of comprehending how the various structures of command and control fit together into domestic and international webs of support enabling and encouraging irregular and paramilitary violence Visible paramilitary participation in modern mass atrocities has succeeded in masking the continued dominance of the state in a number of violent crises Irregular combatants have participated so significantly in committing atrocity crimes because political elites benefit from using unconventional forces to fulfil ambitions that violate international law and international policy responses are hindered when responsibility for violence is ambiguous Ferguson's inquiry into these overlooked dynamics of mass violence unveils substantial loopholes in current atrocity prevention architecture Until these are addressed state authorities will likely continue to use irregular combatants as perpetrators of atrocity
