Signs And Meanings World And Text In Ancient Christianity:

Signs and Meanings Robert Austin Markus, 1996-01-01 This book is based on the author's Forwood Lectures for 1995 in the University of Liverpool. The first two chapters incorporate the full text of these and study early Christian conceptions of signs and signification and investigate the ways in which Christian authors especially Augustine of Hippo and Gregory the Great made use of theories of meaning in their ways of interpreting scriptures. Their interest in the notions of communities based on shared traditions of reading, understanding and interpretation is given special attention. Markus also considers the question of the ways in which different approaches to the Bible have had more far-reaching implications for their authors' world views to what extent biblical hermeneutics helped to shape their hermeneutics of experience. Their differing ways of approaching the Bible is related to the huge change in Christian self-understanding between Augustine c. AD 400 and Gregory the Great c. 600. Ascetic habits of reading come to shape a general response to the world as well as to the biblical text. The lecture texts are complemented by further chapters devoted specifically to the theory of signs and meaning and to some of its applications in special contexts such as magic and ritual. The Limits of Ancient Christianity Robert Austin Markus, 1999 Sixteen essays explore the end of ancient Christianity

Reading the Bible Theologically Darren Sarisky, 2019-01-17 Examines what theological reading is and how it shapes the interpretation of Biblical text through explicit focus on the reader

Image, Word and God in the Early Christian Centuries Mark Edwards, 2016-05-13 Christianity proclaims Christ and the incarnate word of God the Bible is described as the Word of God in both Jewish and Christian tradition Are these usages merely homonymous or would the ancients have recognized a more intimate relation between the word incarnate and the word proclaimed This book investigates the concept of logos in pagan Jewish and Christian thought with a view to elucidating the polyphonic functions which the word acquired when used in theological discourse Edwards presents a survey of theological applications of the term Logos in Greek Jewish and Christian thought from Plato to Augustine and Proclus Special focus is placed on the relation of words to images in representation of divine realm the relation between the logos within reason and the logos without speech both in linguistics and in Christology the relation between the incarnate Word and the written text and the place of reason in the interpretation of revelation Bringing together materials which are rarely synthesized in modern study this book shows how Greek and biblical thought part company in their appraisal of the capacity of reason to grasp the nature of God and how in consequence verbal revelation plays a more significant role in biblical teaching Edwards shows how this entailed the rejection of images in Jewish and Christian thought and how the manifestation in flesh of Christ as the living word of God compelled the church to reconsider both the relation of word to image and the interplay between the logos within and the written logos in the formulation of Christian doctrine

The Oxford Handbook of Early Christian Studies Susan Ashbrook Harvey, David G. Hunter, 2008-09-04 Provides an introduction to the academic study of early Christianity c 100 600 AD and examines the vast geographical area impacted by the early church in Western and Eastern late antiquity from publisher description

The (CUA Studies in Early Christianity) Early Christian Book William E. Klingshirn, Linda Safran, 2007 From the very beginning Christianity was a religion of books a lived but also a written faith The essays in this collection focus on the ways in which books were produced used treasured and conceptualized in the early Christian centuries AD 100 600 During this crucial period just after the New Testament writings were composed Christianity grew from the religion of a tiny minority in the eastern Roman Empire to the religion of the empire itself and beyond To no small extent this success was based on the power of its books Written by experts in the field the essays in this volume examine the early Christian book from a wide range of disciplines religion art history history Near Eastern studies and classics Topics include theories of the book book production and use books as sacred objects and problems of gender authorship and authority readers into the entire bookish world of early Christianity a world of writing and reading practices of copying and exchanging texts of persuading and debating with books and of representing holiness and power through codices of the law the scriptures and the lives of the saints Essays cover a wide geographical range and discuss texts written all across the Mediterranean world in Greek Latin Coptic Syriac and Hebrew All ancient texts are translated into English some for the first time Intended for general readers students and scholars alike anyone with a serious interest in early Christianity this work brings together exciting currents of new research It also opens up fresh questions and lines of inquiry in the study of this perennially important and fascinating subject An introduction by Philip Rousseau provides a valuable overview followed by essays written by Daniel Boyarin Catherine Burris Catherine Chin Gillian Clark Catherine Conybeare Kim Haines Eitzen Caroline Humfress Chrysi Kotsifou John Lowden Claudia Rapp Daniel Sarefield and Mark Vessey

Patristic Theories of Biblical Interpretation Tarmo Toom, 2016-06-16 This volume offers a thorough analysis of Latin patristic hermeneutics covering early church authors who explicitly discussed the subject
