Signs For 40 Year Olds:

What the Signs Say Shonna Trinch, Edward Snajdr, 2020-06-15 Although we may not think we notice them storefronts and their signage are meaningful and the impact they have on people is significant What the Signs Say argues that the public language of storefronts is a key component to the creation of the place known as Brooklyn New York Using a sample of more than two thousand storefronts and over a decade of ethnographic observation and interviews the study charts two very different types of local Brooklyn retail signage The unique and consistent features of many words large lettering and repetition that make up Old School signage both mark and produce an inclusive and open place In contrast the linguistic elements of New School signage such as brevity and wordplay signal not only the arrival of gentrification but also the remaking of Brooklyn as distinctive and exclusive Shonna Trinch and Edward Snajdr a sociolinguist and an anthropologist respectively show how the beliefs and ideas that people take as truths about language and its speakers are deployed in these different sign types They also present in depth ethnographic case studies that reveal how gentrification and corporate redevelopment in Brooklyn are intimately connected to public communication literacy practices the transformation of motherhood and gender roles notions of historical preservation urban planning and systems of privilege Far from peripheral or irrelevant shop signs say loud and clear that language displayed in public always matters Sign Languages in Village

Communities Ulrike Zeshan, Connie de Vos, 2012-10-30 The book is a unique collection of research on sign languages that have emerged in rural communities with a high incidence of often hereditary deafness These sign languages represent the latest addition to the comparative investigation of languages in the gestural modality and the book is the first compilation of a substantial number of different village sign languages Written by leading experts in the field the volume uniquely combines anthropological and linguistic insights looking at both the social dynamics and the linguistic structures in these village communities The book includes primary data from eleven different signing communities across the world including results from Jamaica India Turkey Thailand and Bali All known village sign languages are endangered usually because of pressure from larger urban sign languages and some have died out already Ironically it is often the success of the larger sign language communities in urban centres their recognition and subsequent spread which leads to the endangerment of these small minority sign languages The book addresses this specific type of language endangerment documentation strategies and other ethical issues pertaining to these sign languages on the basis of first hand experiences by Deaf fieldworkers Pulmonary
