Los Alamos, New Mexico Marjorie Chambers, 1999 The Atomic Bomb and American Society Rosemary B. Mariner, G. Kurt Piehler, 2009 Drawing on the latest research on the atomic bomb and its history the contributors to this provocative collection of eighteen essays set out to answer two key questions First how did the atomic bomb a product of unprecedented technological innovation rapid industrial scale manufacturing and unparalleled military deployment shape U S foreign policy the communities of workers who produced it and society as a whole And second how has American society s perception that the the bomb is a means of military deterrence in the Cold War era evolve under the influence of mass media scientists public intellectuals and even the entertainment industry In answering these questions The Atomic Bomb and American Society sheds light on the collaboration of science and the military in creating the bomb the role of women working at Los Alamos the transformation of nuclear physicists into public intellectuals as the reality of the bomb came into widespread consciousness the revolutionary change in military strategy following the invention of the bomb and the development of Cold War ideology the image of the bomb that was conveyed in the popular media and the connection of the bomb to the commemoration of World War II As it illuminates the cultural social political environmental and historical effects of the creation of the atomic bomb this volume contributes to our understanding of how democratic institutions can coexist with a technology that affects everyone even if only a few are empowered to manage it Rosemary B Mariner is formerly Joint Chiefs of Staff Chair and Professor of Military Studies for the National War College She is currently a lecturer in history at the University of Tennessee Knoxville G Kurt Piehler is associate professor of history and former director of the Center for the Study of War and Society at the University of Tennessee Knoxville which hosted the conference that formed the basis of this volume He is the author of Remembering War the American Way and World War II in the American Soldiers Lives Series as well as the coeditor with John Whiteclay Chambers II of Major Problems in American Military History

Inventing Los Alamos Jon Hunner, 2014-08-04 A social history of New Mexico's Atomic City Los Alamos New Mexico birthplace of the Atomic Age is the community that revolutionized modern weaponry and science An instant city created in 1943 Los Alamos quickly grew to accommodate six thousand people scientists and experts who came to work in the top secret laboratories others drawn by jobs in support industries and the families How these people as a community faced both the fevered rush to create an atomic bomb and the intensity of the subsequent cold war era is the focus of Jon Hunner's fascinating narrative history Much has been written about scientific developments at Los Alamos but until this book little has been said about the community that fostered them Using government records and the personal accounts of early residents Inventing Los Alamos traces the evolution of the town during its first fifteen years as home to a national laboratory and documents the town's creation the lives of the families who lived there and the impact of this small community on the Atomic Age
