this approach is that history has shown how certain species have persuasively coexisted with humans for so many millennia yet a conflict happens between animals and humans and within humans over animals It is thus logical to believe that the forces which create this conflict cannot solely be natural to the species in question and have to come from outside from the settlement patterns of both species and the net resultant force and dynamics The book looks at these dichotomies in four distinct but interrelated ways It delves deep inside four niches which form the dynamics of any settlement spatial cultural ecological and economic and explores all scales at which the succession and evolution of animals take place in highly urbanized settlements

Livestock Erin McKenna, 2018 Most livestock in America currently live in cramped and unhealthy confinement have few stable social relationships with humans or others of their species and finish their lives by being transported and killed under stressful conditions In Livestock Erin McKenna allows us to see this situation and presents alternatives She interweaves stories from visits to farms interviews with producers and activists and other rich material about the current condition of livestock In addition she mixes her account with pragmatist and ecofeminist theorizing about animals drawing in particular on John Dewey's account of evolutionary history and provides substantial historical background about individual species and about human animal relations This deeply informative text reveals that the animals we commonly see as livestock have rich evolutionary histories species specific behaviors breed tendencies and individual variation just as those we respect in companion animals such as dogs cats and horses To restore a similar level of respect for livestock McKenna examines ways we can balance the needs of our livestock animals with the environmental and social impacts of raising them and she investigates new possibilities for human ways of being in relationships with animals This book thus offers us a picture of healthier more respectful relationships with livestock

The Earth and Its People ... Wallace Walter Atwood, Helen Goss Thomas, 1928 Settler Ecologies Charis Enns, Brock Bersaglio, 2024-05-01 Settler Ecologies tells the story of how settler colonialism becomes memorialized and lives on through ecological relations Drawing on eight years of research in Laikipia Kenya Charis Enns and Brock Bersaglio use immersive methods to reveal how animals and plants can be enrolled in the reproduction of settler colonialism The book details how ecological relations have been unmade and remade to enable settler colonialism to endure as a structure in this part of Kenya It describes five modes of violent ecological transformation used to prolong structures of settler colonialism eliminating undesired wild species rewilding landscapes with more desirable species to settler ecologists selectively replotting wilderness to create seemingly more inclusive wild spaces and capitalize on biocultural diversity rescuing injured animals and species at risk of extinction to shore up moral support for settler ecologies and extending settler ecologies through landscape approaches to conservation that scale wild spaces Settler Ecologies serves as a cautionary tale for future conservation agendas in all settler colonies While urgent action is needed to halt global biodiversity loss this book underscores the need to continually question whether the types of nature being preserved advance settler colonial structures or create conditions in which ecologies can otherwise be re made and flourish
