North To The Night A Year In The Arctic Ice:

Into the Ice Mark Synnott, 2025-04-15 New York Times bestselling author Mark Synnott has climbed with Alex Honnold He s scaled Mount Everest He s pioneered big wall first ascents including the north west face of the mile high Great Trango Tower and skied monster first descents But in 2022 he realized there was a dream he d yet to achieve to sail the Northwest Passage in his own boat a feat only four hundred or so sailors have ever accomplished and in doing so try to solve the mystery of what happened to legendary nineteenth century explorer Sir John Franklin and his ships HMS Erebus and Terror Only a few hundred vessels have ever transited the Northwest Passage and substantially fewer have done so in a fiberglass hulled boat like Polar Sun But Mark was determined to return to the Arctic where he cut his teeth as a young climber and in the process investigate one of the great mysteries of exploration What really happened to Sir John Franklin and his entire 128 man crew which disappeared into these ice strewn waters 175 years ago In this pulse pounding travelogue Mark Synnott paints a vivid portrait of the Arctic which is currently warming twice as fast as any other part of our planet He weaves its history and people into the first person account of his epic journey through the Northwest Passage searching for Franklin s tomb along the way all while trying to avoid a similar fate In Into the Ice Mark and his crew race against time and treacherous storms in search of answers to the greatest mystery of all time What is it that drives someone to risk it all in the name of exploration

POLAR NIGHT Marine Ecology Jørgen Berge, Geir Johnsen, Jonathan H. Cohen, 2020-04-08 Until recently the prevailing view of marine life at high latitudes has been that organisms enter a general resting state during the dark Polar Night and that the system only awakens with the return of the sun Recent research however with coordinated multidisciplinary field campaigns based on the high Arctic Archipelago of Svalbard have provided a radical new perspective Instead of a system in dormancy a new perspective of a system in full operation and with high levels of activity across all major phyla is emerging Examples of such activities and processes include Active marine organisms at sea surface water column and the sea floor At surface we find active foraging in seabirds and fish in the water column we find a high biodiversity and activity of zooplankton and larvae such as active light induced synchronized diurnal vertical migration and at seafloor there is a high biodiversity in benthic animals and macroalgae The Polar Night is a period for reproduction in many benthic and pelagic taxa mass occurrence of ghost shrimps Caprellides high abundance of Ctenophores physiological evidence of micro and macroalgal cells that are ready to utilize the first rays of light when they appear deep water fishes found at water surface in the Polar night and continuous growth of bivalves throughout the winter These findings not only begin to shape a new paradigm for marine winter ecology in the high Arctic but also provide conclusive evidence for a top down controlled system in which primary production levels are close to zero In an era of environmental change that is accelerated at high latitudes we believe that this new insight is likely to strongly impact how the scientific community views the high latitude marine ecosystem Despite the overwhelming darkness the main environmental variable affecting marine organisms in the Polar Night is in fact light The light regime during the Polar Night is unique with respect to light intensity spectral composition of light and photoperiod The Boy Scouts' Year Book ,1924
