The inclusion of a Bible citation further solidifies the importance of that thought and gives the reader the motivation to think deeply about that prompt as well as feel comfort knowing that God's words support this thought.

The Secret Artist Lesley Chamberlain, 2011-01-04. Widely acclaimed for giving an understanding of the connection between Nietzsche's personal experience and his most famous ideas. Christopher Lehmann Haupt, New York Times, in her biography of Nietzsche. Nietzsche in Turin. Chamberlain now renders a similar service to readers of Freud. In this book, part biography, part literary criticism, she takes the reader into the mind of Freud toward a better understanding of the thinker, his work, and art itself. The very idea of the subconscious as a constant active presence in our daily lives was Freud's greatest contribution and has allowed generations of people to experience their lives more deeply. His rigorous exploration of the dynamism and structures of the subconscious, Chamberlain argues, was in itself an important work of art. Using Freud's own writing on art and the aesthetic theories of thinkers ranging from Nietzsche to Lionel Trilling, Chamberlain examines Freud's art and shows how his imaginative creations have revolutionized not only mental health but our thinking about art in general by opening up the individual subconscious as a subject. In elegant, accessible prose, she describes how Freud split the aesthetic atom, releasing a vast energy for individual creativity.

The Secret of Shangore Nick Carter, 2022-10-13. Excerpt: No, Carter, I shall not go back until I have got my hands on that wretched crook William Pike, and I don't care if it leads me into the very heart of this strange country where they say a white man never has come from alive. The speaker was Jefferson Arnold, the multimillionaire shipowner and importer of Oriental goods, whose establishment was one of the best known of its kind in New York City. His firm jaw came together with a snap, and his dark eyes sparkled with determination in the red light of the camp fire as he looked at the world-renowned detective for approval of his determination. I am rather glad to hear you say that, was Nick Carter's calm reply. Jefferson Arnold jumped up from the rock upon which he had been sitting and went around to shake the detective by the hand. I knew you would agree with me, he shouted. We have found my son Leslie among these rascals, and we've driven them back over the Himalayas all right. But that is not enough for me. I want to see what these mysteries are that we have heard so much about. Bully for you, Mr. Arnold cried Patsy Garvan. That's the stuff I want to lick one or two of those black brutes for what they did to us the last time we had a mix-up. What do you mean, put in Chick? I ask that as first lieutenant of the greatest detective in the world. We licked 'em, didn't we?
