The evolving role of nation-building in US foreign policy Thomas Seitz, 2017-10-03 How and why did the United States get involved in nation building overseas and how have these policies evolved How has Washington understood the relationship between development abroad and security at home and how has this translated into policy What is the relationship between security order and development in nation building and stabilisation efforts This book explores the processes through which nation building approaches originated and developed over the last seven decades as well as the concepts and motivations that shaped them Weaving together International Relations theory and a rich history drawing mainly on declassified documents interviews and other primary sources this book contributes to theoretical discussions of nation building while offering a critique of Realist and Critical Security School analyses of US policy in the developing world Ultimately the book illuminates lessons relevant to today's nation building crisis management stability good governance and reconstruction missions

The Military And Security In The Third World Sheldon W. Simon, 2019-06-26 This book explores two of the most important dimensions of the military as an institution in Third World politics its role in domestic power structures and internal development and its impact on the formation and execution of the security aspects of foreign policy These internal and external orientations are compared here across selected Third World countries in Asia Africa and Latin America The authors are area experts and specialists in comparative and international politics Part 1 focuses on how the interaction of military and civilian elites creates a specific domestic political climate The socioeconomic characteristics of these elites are compared and related to their policy preferences An examination of military establishments in regimes ranging from communist Cuba through business oriented Indonesia reveals whether military similarities persist among differing types of government In Part 2 the contributors examine the role of military force in the Third World through a general empirical treatment of military behavior in developing countries an assessment of the security policies with emphasis on their military components of several Middle Eastern and Asian states and an evaluation of the U S experience in supporting anti communist Third World security efforts

The Politics of European Security Policies Xymena Kurowska, Patryk Pawlak, 2014-06-03 The book is a timely investigation into the European security policy dynamic from the perspective of actors engaged in the contentious policy process Instead of looking at security actors in isolation from one another the book enquires into the practice of the policy process and maps out the constellations of formal and informal actors sponsoring concrete ideas on what European security should be about The understandings of security shift and advocating a particular reading of security involves entering the political contest with actors advancing different conceptions The contributors analyse these different modalities overlapping scenes and shifting meanings that bring about EU security policies Our case studies illustrate how these processes unfold both at the intra EU level where different institutions supply and endorse their security framings and vis vis the EU and its neighbours The purpose of the book is to uncover by pluralistic means the rules of the game that structure the field of the EU's security making. That way rather than impose a rigid theoretical model the editors structure the inquiry around three concepts: security, politics and policy. This book was published as a special issue of Perspectives on European Politics and Society.

Business Innovation and Development in Emerging Economies Irwan Trinugroho, Evan Lau, 2019-05-16. Business Innovation driven by the advancement of technology has dramatically changed the business landscape over recent years not only in advanced countries but also in emerging markets. It is expected that business innovation could help achieve economic inclusion which has been a global initiative over the last decade creating opportunities for all people to benefit from the economic development. These proceedings provide an outlet for discussing the importance of business innovation especially in emerging countries in helping to reach inclusive economies. The papers cover the subject areas: management, accounting, finance, economics and social sciences. Islam and the Securitisation of Population Policies Katrina Riddell, 2016-05-06

There has been much scholarly debate on the politically disruptive capabilities of Islam and the threats to global security posed by or to Muslim states and societies but within this dialogue there has been little recognition of the role of population policies in security issues. Katrina Riddell's study focuses specifically on Islam and the securitization of population policies and sustainability. Opening with a discussion of contemporary population discourses and their historical foundations the book examines how population growth has become an international security issue. The author takes the examples of Pakistan and Iran to provide a nuanced understanding of Muslim states' interaction with global debates on sustainability. She also explores how Muslim and non-Muslim states, societies and agents perceive issues of population growth and control. Providing an innovative approach to the pursuit of global sustainability and security this book presents useful material to scholars whose research focuses on Islam and the future. Global E-Security Hamid Jahankhani, Kenneth Revett, Dominic

Palmer-Brown, 2008-06-21. In today's society where technology is ubiquitous protecting ourselves with firewalls is as important as defending ourselves with firepower. New technology is providing criminals with a world of opportunity while law enforcement agencies all over the world are struggling to cope. E-security is an issue of global importance. In many ways cybercrime is no different to more traditional types of crime both involve identifying targets using surveillance and psychological profiling of potential victims. The major difference is that the perpetrators of cybercrime are increasingly remote to the scene of their crime and that in some cases their victims may not even realize that a crime is taking place. Knowledge of the techniques being used by criminals and the technology and training available to combat them is essential in fighting cybercrime. Establishing dialogue between crime fighting agencies, the security industry, researchers and experts can provide a platform from which e-security can be examined from several global perspectives. Critical Infrastructure Protection IV Tyler Moore, Sujeet Shenoi, 2010-11-26. The information infrastructure comprising computers, embedded devices, networks and software systems is vital to operations in every sector: information technology, telecommunications, energy, banking and finance transportation systems chemicals agriculture and food defense industrial base public health and health care national monuments and icons drinking water and water treatment systems commercial facilities dams emergency services commercial nuclear reactors materials and waste postal and shipping and government facilities Global business and industry governments indeed society itself cannot function if major components of the critical information infrastructure are degraded disabled or destroyed This book Critical Infrastructure Protection IV is the fourth volume in the annual series produced by IFIP Working Group 11.10 on Critical Infrastructure Protection an active international community of scientists engineers practitioners and policy makers dedicated to advancing research development and implementation efforts related to critical infrastructure protection The book presents original research results and innovative applications in the area of infrastructure protection Also it highlights the importance of weaving science technology and policy in crafting sophisticated yet practical solutions that will help secure information computer and network assets in the various critical infrastructure sectors This volume contains seventeen edited papers from the Fourth Annual IFIP Working Group 11.10 International Conference on Critical Infrastructure Protection held at the National Defense University Washington DC March 15-17 2010 The papers were refereed by members of IFIP Working Group 11.10 and other internationally recognized experts in critical infrastructure protection

European Food Aid Policy John Cathie, 2019-01-15 Published in 1997 this book traces the development of European Food Aid Policy from its inception in the 1960s through to the 1990s This covers the change from a surplus disposal programme in the early days to the present policy The European Food Aid Policy is one of the few areas of development policy that is European rather than national in character John Cathie therefore also examines the links forged with non governmental organizations at an international level for food aid and humanitarian operations
