Seed Plants Of The High Andes Of Ecuador:

Catalogue of the Vascular Plants of Ecuador Peter Møller Jørgensen, Susana León-Yáñez, 1999 Gradients in a Tropical Mountain Ecosystem of Ecuador Erwin Beck, Jörg Bendix, Ingrid Kottke, Franz Makeschin, Reinhard Mosandl, 2008-01-24 A fascinating work that provides a wealth of information on one of the world's most biodiverse ecosystems. This is the result of investigations by almost 30 groups of researchers from various disciplines. They performed ecosystem analyses following two gradients: an altitudinal gradient and a gradient of land use intensity and ecosystem regeneration following human use. Based on these analyses, this volume discusses these findings in a huge variety of subject areas. Plant Diversity of an Andean Cloud Forest Grady L. Webster, Robert Rhode, 2001-04-26 Based on work spanning a decade, this study of the Maquipucuna area on the western slopes of the Andes discusses the climate, vegetation, ecological relationships, and flora, and emphasizes the importance of the Maquipucuna area as a biological reserve. In addition to the checklist of the flora, which enumerates 1,650 species including 228 species of pteridophytes and over 200 species of orchids, appendices give information on floristic composition of communities, distribution of epiphytes, and elevational ranges of families and genera. The illustrations include a map, landscapes, and characteristic species. Inventory of Seeds and Plants Imported, 1938 Forest Biodiversity in North, Central and South America, and the Caribbean Francisco Dallmeier, James A. Minaya Maldonado, 2017-07-14 In the Andes mountainous region of South America, grasslands known as páramos provide important ecosystem services like sustaining biodiversity, securing carbon sequestration, and providing water storage. However, many páramo regions are subject to land use change due to expanding agriculture, intensified grazing, and land burning. These are usually caused by socio-economic factors driving local communities to increase their income generation. Trying to achieve a better understanding of the páramo is often restricted to exploring specific details and does not follow an integrated approach or a comprehensive ecosystem analysis. In this research, the focus is on better understanding the dominant ecohydrological processes and their interactions. An integrated approach is followed using in situ measurements, field experiments, laboratory analyses, and numerical modelling. Also, different hydroinformatics tools are used to identify and quantify the ecosystem services provided by the páramo. Moreover, a framework is developed that allows a more realistic quantification and mapping of the main ecosystem services. The approach was carried out for a test site in an Ecological area in North Ecuador. The findings show a clear difference in ecosystem services depending on their altitudinal range and type of vegetation. These results can be used to further develop environmental management and landscape planning strategies in order to better meet the social goals. This research is aligned with the priorities advocated in the IPCC Report 2007 to improve representation of the interactive coupling between ecosystems and the climate system and with SDG 15 Life on Land By 2020 ensure the conservation restoration and sustainable use of terrestrial and inland freshwater ecosystems and their services

When Rolf Dahlgren and I embarked on preparing this book series Rolf took prime responsibility for monocotyledons which had interested him for a long time After finishing his comparative study and family classification of the monocots he devoted much energy to the acquisition and editing of family treatments for the present series After his untimely death Peter Goldblatt who had worked with him continued to handle further incoming monocot manuscripts until in the early 1990s his other obligations no longer allowed him to continue At that time some 30 manuscripts in various states of perfection had accumulated which seemed to form a solid basis for a speedy completion of the FGVP monocots with the exception of the grasses and orchids which would appear in separate volumes I felt a strong obligation to do everything to help in publishing the manuscripts that had been put into our hands I finally decided to take charge of them personally although during my life as a botanist I had never seriously been interested in monocots
