Seeds From A Silent Tree:

The American Child Caroline Field Levander, Carol J. Singley, 2003 From the time that the infant colonies broke away from the parent country to the present day narratives of U S national identity are persistently configured in the language of childhood and family In The American Child A Cultural Studies Reader contributors address matters of race gender and family to chart the ways that representations of the child typify historical periods and conflicting ideas They build on the recent critical renaissance in childhood studies by bringing to their essays a wide range of critical practices and methodologies Although the volume is grounded heavily in the literary it draws on other disciplines revealing that representations of children and childhood are not isolated artifacts but cultural productions that in turn affect the social climates around them Essayists look at games pets adolescent sexuality death family relations and key texts such as The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn and the movie Pocahontas they reveal the ways in which the figure of the child operates as a rich vehicle for writers to consider evolving ideas of nation and the diverse role of citizens within it Asian/Pacific Islander American Women Shirley Hune, Gail M. Nomura, 2003-08 A groundbreaking anthology devoted to Asian Pacific Islander American women and their experiences Asian Pacific Islander American Women is the first collection devoted to the historical study of A PI women s diverse experiences in America Covering a broad terrain from pre large scale Asian emigration and Hawaii in its pre Western contact period to the continental United States the Philippines and Guam at the end of the twentieth century the text views women as historical subjects actively negotiating complex hierarchies of power The volume presents new findings about a range of groups including recent immigrants to the U S and understudied communities Comprised of original new work it includes chapters on women who are Cambodian Chamorro Chinese Filipino Hmong Japanese Korean Native Hawaiian South Asian and Vietnamese Americans It addresses a wide range of women s experiences as immigrants military brides refugees American born lesbians workers mothers beauty contestants and community activists There are also pieces on historiography and methodology and bibliographic and video documentary resources This groundbreaking anthology is an important addition to the scholarship in Asian Pacific American studies ethnic studies American studies women s studies and U S history and is a valuable resource for scholars and students Contributors include Xiaolan Bao Sucheng Chan Catherine Ceniza Choy Vivian Loyola Dames Jennifer Gee Madhulika S Khandelwal Lili M Kim Nancy In Kyung Kim Erika Lee Shirley Jennifer Lim Valerie Matsumoto Sucheta Mazumdar Davianna Pomaika i McGregor Trinity A Ordona Rhacel Salazar Parre as Amy Ku uleialoha Stillman Charlene Tung Kathleen Uno Linda Trinh V Judy Tzu Chun Wu Ji Yeon Yuh and Judy Yung Seeds from a Silent Tree Tonya Bishoff, Jo Rankin, 1997 Claiming Others Mark C. Jerng, 2010 Global Families Catherine Ceniza Choy, 2013-10-11 In the last fifty years transnational adoption specifically the adoption of Asian children has exploded in popularity as an alternative path to family making Despite the cultural acceptance of this practice surprisingly little attention has been paid to the factors that allowed Asian international adoption to flourish In Global Families Catherine Ceniza Choy unearths the little known historical origins of Asian international adoption in the United States Beginning with the post World War II presence of the U S military in Asia she reveals how mixed race children born of Japanese Korean and Vietnamese women and U S servicemen comprised one of the earliest groups of adoptive children Based on extensive archival research Global Families moves beyond one dimensional portrayals of Asian international adoption as either a progressive form of U S multiculturalism or as an exploitative form of cultural and economic imperialism Rather Choy acknowledges the complexity of the phenomenon illuminating both its radical possibilities of a world united across national cultural and racial divides through family formation and its strong potential for reinforcing the very racial and cultural hierarchies it sought to challenge

The Imprint of Another Life Margaret Homans, 2013-07-18 The Imprint of Another Life: Adoption Narratives and Human Possibility addresses a series of questions about common beliefs about adoption Underlying these beliefs is the assumption that human qualities are innate and intrinsic an assumption often held by adoptees and their families sometimes at great emotional cost This book explores representations of adoption transracial transnational and domestic same race adoption that reimagine human possibility by questioning this assumption and conceiving of alternatives Literary scholar Margaret Homans examines fiction making a special relationship to themes of adoption as if a form of family making fabricated or fictional instead of biological or real Adoption has tended to generate stories rather than uncover bedrock truths Adoptive families are made not born In the words of novelist Jeanette Winterson adopted children are self invented because we have to be In attempting to recover their lost histories and identities adoptees create new stories about themselves While some believe that adoptees cannot be whole unless they reconnect with their origins others believe that privileging biology reaffirms hierarchies such as those of race that harm societies and individuals Adoption is lived and represented through an irresolvable tension between belief in the innate nature of human traits and belief in their constructedness contingency and changeability The book shows some of the ways in which literary creation and a concept of adoption as a form of creativity manages this tension The texts examined include fiction e g classic novels such as Silas Marner What Maisie Knew and Beloved memoirs by adoptees adoptive parents and birthmothers drama documentary films advice manuals social science writing and published interviews with adoptees parents and birth parents Along the way the book tracks the quests of adoptees who whether or not they meet their original families must construct their own stories rather than finding them follows transnational adoptees as they return hopes held high to Korea and China looks over the shoulders of a generation of girls adopted from China as they watch Disney's iconic Mulan with its alluring story of destiny written on the skin and listens to birthmothers as they struggle to tell painful secrets held for decades This book engages in debates within adoption studies women's and gender studies transnational studies and ethnic studies it will appeal to literary scholars and critics including specialists in memoir or narrative theory and to general readers interested in adoption and in race

McKee, 2019-03-02 Since the Korean War began, Western families have adopted more than 200,000 Korean children. Two-thirds of these adoptees found homes in the United States. The majority joined white families and in the process forged a new kind of transnational and transracial kinship. Kimberly D. McKee examines the growth of the neocolonial multi-million-dollar global industry that shaped these families, a system she identifies as the transnational adoption industrial complex. As she shows, an alliance of the South Korean welfare state, orphanages, adoption agencies, and American immigration laws powered transnational adoption between the two countries. Adoption became a tool to supplement an inadequate social safety net for South Korea's unwed mothers and low-income families. At the same time, it commodified children, building a market that allowed Americans to create families at the expense of loving biological ties between Koreans. McKee also looks at how Christian Americanism, South Korean welfare policy, and other facets of adoption interact with and disrupt American perceptions of nation, citizenship, belonging, family, and ethnic identity. Asian American Identities and Practices Jonathan H. X. Lee, Kathleen Nadeau, 2014-05-23 Asian American Identities and Practices: Folkloric Expressions in Everyday Life probes the intersection, interplay, and interconnection of Asian and Asian American folklore and folklife in globally fluid and culturally creative landscapes among Asian American communities and subjects Asian American folklore as a way of life and practice that has emerged and continues to emerge as Asian Americans lay claim and take root in the American mosaic. As such, the contributors in this volume all show how the Asian American historical experiences and continued international migration inform the production of new folkloric practices, subjectivities, and ideologies which in turn strengthen specific Asian American ways of life while normalizing folklore that are squarely produced in Asian America. This collection illustrates that Asian American folklore and folklife is interwoven with social relationships, the creation of various types of ethnic cultural, and national identities and adaptive strategies within the particular historical periods communities and shifting boundaries and demographics of Asian America The global context of Asian American folklore and folklife especially in the racially charged post 9 11 context bespeaks how Asians past and present maneuver the cultural spaces of their host society and old traditions to create new sites and new opportunities for cultural folkloric production and expression in everyday life Rites of Return Marianne Hirsch, Nancy K. Fenkl, Walter K. Lew, 2002-05-10 Since the 1930s Korean American writers have come to maintain an important place in our national literature publishing some of the most exciting fiction of the twentieth century The stories in this first anthology of Korean American fiction represent the very best work of these writers including several pieces published for the first time Contributors include Patti Kim Chang rae Lee Susan Choi Heinz Insu Fenkl Leonard Chang Nora Okja Keller and Richard E Kim Transnational Adoption Sara K. Dorow, 2006-04-01 Each year thousands of Chinese children primarily abandoned infant girls are adopted by Americans Yet we know very little about the local and transnational processes that characterize this new migration Transnational Adoption is a unique ethnographic study of China U S adoption the largest contemporary intercountry adoption program Sara K Dorow begins by situating the popularity of the China U S adoption process within a broader history of immigration and adoption She then follows the path of the adoption process the institutions and bureaucracies in both China and the United States that prepare children and parents for each other the stories and practices that legitimate them coming together as transnational families the strains placed upon our common notions of what motherhood means and ways in which parents then construct the cultural and racial identities of adopted children Based on rich ethnographic evidence including interviews with and observation of people on both sides of the Pacific from orphanages government officials and adoption agencies to advocacy groups and adoptive families themselves this is a fascinating look at the latest chapter in Chinese American migration
