Fate and Fortune in European Thought, ca. 1400-1650 Ovanes Akopyan, 2021-04-26 If the universe were conceived to fulfill a certain divine plan or to manifest God s will and glory what would the place of an individual be within this plan What is more if from the very beginning of its existence and through divine providence it were predestined to be driven toward a certain end how could people adjust their individual lives to the incognizable universal design and react to the obscure future fraught with both luck and failure These questions which have occupied humanity for centuries formed a remarkable element of early modern European thought This collection of essays presents new insights into what shaped and constituted reflections on fate and fortune between roughly 1400 and 1650 both in word and image This volume argues that these ideas were emblematic of a more fundamental argument about the self society and the universe and shows that their influence was more widespread geographically and thematically than hitherto assumed Contributors Damiano Acciarino Ovanes Akopyan Elisabeth Blum Paul Richard Blum Jo Coture Guido Giglioni Dalia Judovitz Sophie Raux Orlando Reade and John Sellars

Gambling and Speculation Reuven Brenner, Gabrielle A. Brenner, 1990-03-30 Gambling and Speculation takes the long historic perspective of its controversial subject The book offers not only a better understanding of the recent gambling craze but also a fundamental inquiry into human nature and the structure of societies The Brenners argue that the negative image of gamblers and of speculators stems from prejudice whose roots are in the distant forgotten past Legal scholars have frequently confused gambling with speculation and the anti gambling laws were at times erroneously interpreted as implying the prohibitions of contracts in futures and insurance markets One consequence of all this confusion was that during this century both in the United States and England the legislation and law on betting and gambling became ambiguous The authors touch on this issue and make policy recommendations to abolish restrictions on the industry diminish the states role in selling lotteries and at the same time make legal distinctions capable of helping the tiny percentage of players who might be addicted The Brenners recommendations on gambling are based on their conclusion that gamblers are neither mentally ill nor criminals and that gambling does not lead its practitioners to poverty Rather it is the other way around some of the poor and the frustrated gamble Looking at gambling in this way leads to questions about the nature of society What do the fortunate do for those who are not What is society s obligation to people who fall behind in the game of life Answers to these questions require a discussion on the principles of equality capitalism the role of religious influence on society topics that the Brenners have discussed in their previous studies and they do so here too putting gambling within its proper historical context
