Echoes of Our Origins Shirley C. Strum,2025-09-09 The amazing chronicle of a primate scientist s fifty year journey studying baboons and what her findings can tell us about primates resilience and human coexistence In 1972 renowned anthropologist Shirley C Strum traveled to Kenya to study the origins of human aggression through observing baboons What Dr Strum discovered completely defied her expectations scientific notions about baboons and even well established assumptions about primate behavior writ large In Echoes of Our Origins Strum takes readers on an extraordinary fifty year journey alongside baboons creatures that transformed not just her scientific understanding but also her perspective on life people nature and evolution Strum s groundbreaking research began when she embarked on fieldwork in Kenya Observing the lives of these social creatures Strum uncovered their unexpectedly complex strategies of negotiation collaboration and resilience in the face of adversity From exploring the evolution of social bonds and trust in baboon society a common idea today but not then to confronting the consequences of human wildlife conflict Strum illustrates what it means to coexist with the natural world and question our role within it With insights drawn from half a century of living among and studying baboons Strum reflects on the delicate balance of nature and humanity how science itself must evolve to see beyond its rigid frameworks and how to think about evolution This profound narrative challenges readers to look anew at not only baboons but also the very methods by which we understand the animal kingdom and ourselves Equal parts natural history adventure story memoir and call to action Echoes of Our Origins will engage enlighten and contribute to the vital conversation about our natural world and how to ensure its survival

Birthing Techno-Sapiens Robbie Davis-Floyd, 2021-03-30 This ground breaking book challenges us to re think ourselves as techno sapiens a new species we are creating as we continually co evolve ourselves with our technologies While some of its chapters are imaginary they are all empirically grounded in ethnography and richly theorized from diverse disciplines The authors go far beyond a techno optimism vs techno pessimism stance stretching our thinking about birthing techno sapiens to consider not only how our cyborgian reproductive lives are constrained and or enabled by technology but are also about emotions and spirit The world of reproductive health care and particularly that of genetic engineering is developing exponentially and current challenges are vastly different from those of a decade ago The book is provocative intended to generate debate ideas and future research and to influence ethical policy and practice in human techno reproduction It will be of interest across the social sciences and humanities for reproductive scholars bioethicists techno scientists and those involved in the development and delivery of maternity services

Vulnerable Subjects G. Thomas Couser, 2018-08-06 My primary concern is with the ethics of representing vulnerable subjects persons who are liable to exposure by someone with whom they are involved in an intimate or trust based relationship unable to represent themselves in writing or unable to offer meaningful consent to their representation by someone else Of primary importance is intimate life writing that done within families or couples close relationships or quasi professional relationships that involve trust rather than conventional biography which can be written by a stranger The closer the relationship between writer and subject the greater the vulnerability or dependency of the subject the higher the ethical stakes and the more urgent the need for ethical scrutiny from the Preface Vulnerable Subjects explores a range of life writing scenarios from the celebrity to the ethnographic and a number of life writing genres from parental memoir to literary case studies by Oliver Sacks G Thomas Couser addresses complex contemporary issues he investigates the role of disability in narratives of euthanasia and explores the implications of the Human Genome Project for life writing practices in any age when many regard DNA as a code that scripts lives and shapes identity Throughout his book is concerned with the ethical implications of the political and economic as well as the mimetic aspects of life writing

The Real Chimpanzee Christophe Boesch, 2009-07-23 The Real Chimpanzee encapsulates the fascinating behaviour of wild chimpanzees and discusses the differences observed in different populations across the species and across the many levels of their social behaviour It explains why sex competition and predation pressures in a forest chimpanzee population made the females of the group highly social and gave the males a high level of within group solidarity making them very xenophobic towards outsiders Love is what makes war possible Christophe Boesch brings back to the table the debate over ecological pressures and social organization and the influence they have over issues such as the evolution of warfare co operation altruism and the position of females Written in an accessible style for a general audience as well as for undergraduate and graduate students he presents insightful views to give readers the background information to understand the struggle for survival of our closest living relative the chimpanzee and through this to find some keys to the ever so intriguing question of what makes us human

Against the Grain Richard Manning, 2025-05-21 In this provocative wide ranging book Against the Grain Richard Manning offers a dramatically revisionist view of recent human evolution beginning with the vast increase in brain size that set us apart from our primate relatives and brought an accompanying increase in our need for nourishment For 290 000 years we managed to meet that need as hunter gatherers a state in which Manning believes we were at our most human at our smartest strongest most sensually alive But our reliance on food made a secure supply deeply attractive and eventually we embarked upon the agricultural experiment that has been the history of our past 10 000 years The evolutionary road is littered with failed experiments however and Manning suggests that agriculture as we have practiced it runs against both our grain and nature s Drawing on the work of anthropologists biologists archaeologists and philosophers along with his own travels he argues that not only our ecological ills overpopulation erosion pollution but our social and emotional malaise are rooted in the devil s bargain we made in our not so distant past And he offers personal achievable ways we might re contour the path we have taken to resurrect what is most sustainable and sustaining in our own nature and the planet s

The Ethics of Nature Celia Deane-Drummond, 2008-04-15 This accessible and timely book uses a Christian perspective to explore ethical debates about nature A detailed exploration of humanity s treatment of the natural world from a Christian perspective Covers a range of ethical debates including current controversies about the environment animal rights biotechnology consciousness and cloning Sets the immediate issues in the context of underlying theological and philosophical assumptions Complex scientific issues are explained in clear student friendly language The author develops her own distinctive ethical approach centred on the practice of wisdom Discusses key figures in the field including Peter Singer Aldo Leopold Tom Regan Andrew Linzey James Lovelock Anne Primavesi Rosemary Radford Ruether and Michael Northcott The author has held academic posts in both theology and plant science Thank You, Madagascar Alison Jolly,2015-03-12 An enchanting book poignant and passionate Geographical A captivating and absorbing account Sir David Attenborough Madagascar is one of the world's natural jewels with over ninety per cent of its wildlife found nowhere else on Earth Few people knew it better than the pioneering primatologist and conservationist Alison Jolly Thank You Madagascar is her eyewitness account of the extraordinary biodiversity of the island and the environment of its people At the book's heart is a conflict between three different views of nature Is the extraordinary forest treasure house of Madagascar a heritage for the entire world Is it a legacy of the forest dwellers' ancestors bequeathed to serve the needs of their living descendants Or is it an economic resource to be pillaged for short term gain and to be preserved only to deliver benefits for those with political power Exploring and questioning these different views this is a beautifully written diary and a tribute to Madagascar

Centralizing Fieldwork Jeremy MacClancy,Agustín Fuentes,2010-12-01 Fieldwork is a central method of research throughout anthropology a much valued much vaunted mode of generating information But its nature and process have been seriously understudied in biological anthropology and primatology This book is the first ever comparative investigation across primatology biological anthropology and social anthropology to look critically at this key research practice It is also an innovative way to further the comparative project within a broadly conceived anthropology because it does not focus on common theory but on a common method The questions asked by contributors are what in the pursuit of fieldwork is common to all three disciplines what is unique to each how much is contingent how much necessary Can we generate well grounded cross disciplinary generalizations about this mutual research method and are there any telling differences Co edited by a social anthropologist and a primatologist the book includes a list of distinguished and well established contributors from primatology and biological anthropology Sisterhood Is Forever Robin Morgan,2007-11-01 Thirty years after Robin Morgan's groundbreaking anthology Sisterhood Is Powerful named by The American Librarians Association one of The 100 Most Influential Books of the Twentieth Century comes this landmark new collection for the twenty first century Sisterhood Is Forever with over 60 original essays Morgan commissioned from well known feminist leaders plus energetic Gen X and Y activists is a composite mural of the female experience in America where we've been where we are where we're going The stunning scope of topics ranges from reproductive health and environmental issues to workplace inequities and the economics of women's unpaid labor from globalization to the politics of aging from cyberspace violence against women and electoral politics to spirituality the law the media and academia The deliberately audacious mix of contributors spans different generations races ethnicities and sexual preferences CEOs housewives rock stars farmers scientists prostituted women politicians women in prison firefighters disability activists artists flight attendants an army general an astronaut an
