Optimal Allocation and Use of Water Resources in the Mekong River Basin Claudia Ringler, 2001 With the goals of describing trade offs and complements in water use and efficient allocation strategies this study analyzes multi country and intersectoral water allocation and use at the river basin level It describes the river basin as a unit of analysis and management outlines integrated economic hydraulic water modeling at the basin scale discusses the valuation of water resources determines the water availability and use in the Mekong river basin considers the influence of the Mekong regime and details a program of optimal allocation Ringler is affiliated with the International Food Policy Research Institute No index Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Values of Inland Fisheries in the Mekong River Basin Eric Baran, Teemu Jantunen, Chiew Kieok Chong,

Jeuland, 2015-12-31 An ex-post impact assessment of IFPRI's GRP22 program, Water Research Allocation

Bennett, Jeffrey W., 2013-04-10 The performance of the International Food Policy Research Institute's IFPRI's research program that focuses on water resource issues is reviewed for the period 1994 2010 around the three themes that constitute the program global modeling river basin modeling and institutions The IFPRI water team has been involved in leading edge research in a number of dimensions it has focused on analysis at varying geographic scales the work has been truly interdisciplinary by engaging economics with biophysical science and other social sciences and research outputs have been innovative in advancing institutional analysis and water pricing and in policy measures addressing the complexities of water supply management In the research tasks IFPRI's water team actively collaborated with a wide range of researchers from within the CGIAR network national research institutes and universities Within the team a largely stable group of leaders has been responsible for the professional development of a substantial cohort of junior staff who have moved onto successful careers elsewhere The output of the program has been prolific and prominent in academic policy and development communities The approach taken is to review selected publications from the themes assess the quality of the journals in which papers have been published and evaluate the performance on average of researchers in the program In addition surveys of stakeholders were carried out and three specific projects were subjected to detailed review The assessment demonstrated the high regard in which the program research outputs and researchers are held The IFPRI water team has been remarkably productive throughout the 16 years considered working on issues that are of high relevance to policy and producing work that has largely been cutting edge However impacts generated by individual projects were not consistently or readily identifiable To maximize the benefits of this performance and to overcome challenges associated with securing more outcomes this report recommends that a more coordinated approach be taken to develop the research project portfolio This would involve better targeting of projects to policy objectives through a more systematic review of research demand forces and improved integration of research work with policy development processes The latter in particular requires the development of a sense of research project ownership within the policy circles the research is designed to influence More effort in the development of in country research partnerships can aid this process as local researchers can act as champions within local policy circles Where government agencies have a research function their integration into the partnerships is recommended Avoidance of completing research projects in a policy vacuum is critical but requires both advanced planning of each research project as well as constant adaptation of the work plan to often rapidly evolving policy contexts To achieve project impacts beyond the immediacy of the specific case study context a more targeted and coordinated publication strategy should be developed in light of changing publication technology Project webpages within the IFPRI website with readily downloadable reports are useful during the implementation of each project and more formal papers should be targeted for publication in high impact factor technical journals with parallel papers prepared for more policy oriented journals that have high circulations

Managing and Transforming Water Conflicts Jerome Delli Priscoli, Aaron T. Wolf, 2010-02-04 What is the one thing that no one can do without Water Where water crosses boundaries be they economic legal political or cultural the stage is set for disputes between different users trying to safeguard access to a vital resource while protecting the natural environment Without strategies to anticipate address and mediate between competing users intractable water conflicts are likely to become more frequent more intense and more disruptive around the world In this book Delli Priscoli and Wolf investigate the dynamics of water conflict and conflict resolution from the local to the international They explore the inexorable links between three facets of conflict management and transformation Alternative Dispute Resolution ADR public participation and institutional capacity This practical guide will be invaluable to water management professionals as well as to researchers and students in engineering economics geography geology and political science who are involved in any aspects of water management

Governing International Watercourses Susanne Schmeier, 2013 In this contribution to the academic and policy debates surrounding the management and governance of shared natural resources the focus is placed on River Basin Organizations as the key institutions for managing internationally shared water resources The book includes advice to policy makers based on worldwide analysis and three detailed case studies from three continents the Senegal West Africa Mekong South east Asia and Danube Europe rivers

Following the Proper Channels Bennett L. Bearden, 2018-02-12 In Following the Proper Channels Tributaries in the Mekong Legal Regime Bennett Bearden offers in depth policy and legal analyses of the marginalization of tributaries in the context of the 1995 Agreement on the Cooperation for the Sustainable Development of the Mekong River Basin law of international watercourses hydrosovereignty and the national economic development interests of the Mekong riparians As a problem based study enlightening conclusions are made based on the increasingly state centric nature of water resources management in the Mekong region through pursuit of national agendas in the unilateral and bilateral development of tributaries The overarching legal and hydropolicy issue is whether states can simultaneously pursue hydrosovereignty on tributaries and ensure the Mekong legal regime's efficacy to achieve holistic water resources management and basin wide governance Routledge Handbook of Water Economics and Institutions Kimberly Burnett, Richard Howitt, James A. Roumasset, Christopher A. Wada, 2014-12-05 Growing scarcity of freshwater worldwide brings to light the need for sound water resource modeling and policy analysis While a solid foundation has been established for many specific water management problems combining those methods and principles in a unified framework remains an ongoing challenge This Handbook aims to expand the scope of efficient water use to include allocation of sources and quantities across uses and time as well as integrating demand management with supply side substitutes Socially efficient water use does not generally coincide with private decisions in the real world however Examples of mechanisms designed to incentivize efficient behavior are drawn from agricultural water use municipal water regulation and externalities linked to water resources Water management is further complicated when information is costly and or imperfect Standard optimization frameworks are extended to allow for coordination costs games and cooperation and risk allocation When operating efficiently water markets are often viewed as a desirable means of allocation because a market price incentivizes users to move resources from low to high value activities However early attempts at water trading have run into many obstacles Case studies from the United States Australia Europe and Canada highlight the successes and remaining challenges of establishing efficient water markets Handbook of Water

The Water, Food, Energy and Climate Nexus Felix Dodds,Jamie Bartram,2016-03-31 Global trends of population growth rising living standards and the rapidly increasing urbanized world are increasing the demand on water food and energy Added to this is the growing threat of climate change which will have huge impacts on water and food availability It is increasingly clear that there is no place in an interlinked world for isolated solutions aimed at just one sector In recent years the nexus has emerged as a powerful concept to capture these inter linkages of resources and is now a key feature of policy making This book is one of the first to provide a broad overview of both the science behind the nexus and the implications for policies and sustainable development It brings together contributions by leading intergovernmental and governmental officials industry scientists and other stakeholder thinkers who are working to develop the approaches to the Nexus of water food energy and climate It represents a major synthesis and state of the art assessment of the Nexus by major players in light of the adoption by the United Nations of the new Sustainable Development Goals and Targets in 2015 With a foreword by HRH the Prince of Wales Regimes in Southeast Asia Henriette Litta,2011-11-01 In the context of massive environmental problems in Southeast Asia the countries in the region have decided at least in some instances to create regimes to solve these problems jointly This empirical observation is surprising given the Southeast Asian countries general reluctance to regional cooperation the governance and budgetary constraints that are typical for developing countries and the huge heterogeneity of the involved countries in terms of environmental vulnerability economic capacity and hegemonic power This book analyzes the creation and effectiveness of two environmental regimes one on transboundary haze pollution and a second on resource management of the Mekong It will be shown that regime creation is extremely problematic and strategies to overcome conflicting actor constellations are mostly lacking Hydrology and Water Resources Management in Arid, Semi-Arid, and Tropical Regions Ondieki, Christopher Misati,Kitheka, Johnson Utu,2019-06-28 Hydrology is a key influence on water security environmental sustainability agricultural production energy and transport especially in unique environments such as arid regions and the tropics where degradation issues on water and land can threaten the livelihoods of poor communities With implications in urbanization landscape architecture and sanitation enhancing the practice of water use management and planning is imperative for the sustainable development of these regions Hydrology and Water Resources Management in Arid Semi Arid and Tropical Regions is an essential research publication that seeks to improve scientific understanding and sharing of data in hydrology and integrated water resources management of arid semi arid and tropical regions in order to enhance water governance and alleviate reduction in the vulnerability of water resources systems to global changes Featuring a wide range of topics such as hydrometeorology sustainable development and climate change this book is ideal for researchers technology developers academicians policymakers government officials and students this study hypothesizes that Clean Development Mechanism CDM projects in the land use and forestry sector are an efficient instrument for climate change mitigation that contributes to rural development and poverty alleviation at the same time To this end the study analyzes socio economic aspects of a forestry project established under the CDM rules considering an East African case study exemplarily An agricultural household survey in Tanzania delivered the empirical data for the structural equation model at the center of the analysis Looking at different farm assets it is shown that the benefits of land use related climate projects go way beyond pure mitigation They also have a positive impact on a very broad asset base on which poor farm households depend Hence the current CDM only allowing for afforestation and reforestation projects is far too restricted to deliver on its twin objective Balancing Hydropower and Freshwater Environments in the Global South Pierre Girard,David Andrew Kaplan,Walter Collischonn, Lee Baumgartner,2021-12-06 Opening Up Knowledge Production Through Participatory Research?
