Oradour Massacre And After:

The Hidden Histories of War Crimes Trials Kevin Heller, Gerry Simpson, 2013-10-31 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 3.0 International licence. It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations. Several instances of war crimes trials are familiar to all scholars but in order to advance understanding of the development of international criminal law it is important to provide a full range of evidence from less familiar trials. This book therefore provides an essential resource for a more comprehensive overview uncovering and exploring some of the lesser known war crimes trials that have taken place in a variety of contexts international and domestic northern and southern historic and contemporary. It analyses these trials with a view to recognising institutional innovations clarifying doctrinal debates and identifying their general relevance to contemporary international criminal law. At the same time the book recognises international criminal law's history of suppression or sublimation. What stories has the discipline refused to tell? What stories have been displaced by the ones it has told? Has international criminal law's framing or telling of these stories excluded other possibilities? And perhaps most important of all how can recovering the lost stories and imagining new narrative forms reconfigure the discipline? Many of the trials examined in this book have hardly ever before been discussed others have been examined only in the most cursory manner. Indeed until now no volume has been dedicated to telling the story of these trials that have yet to find a place in the international criminal law canon. Providing a detailed analysis of these trials which took place in Europe Africa South America and Australasia in both historical and contemporary contexts this book is essential reading for anyone concerned with the development of international criminal law.

Across the Face of France James Alvin Huston, 1963 The author who fought across France with the 134th infantry follows the approximate liberation route as he revisits the towns decades later. This book is a combination of military and political history meditation on the tragic predicament of humanity and an affectionate portrayal of the French and their country.

Dark Tourism and Crime Derek Dalton, 2014-11-20 Dark tourism has become widespread and diverse. It has passed into popular culture vernacular deployed in guide books as a short hand descriptor for sites that are associated with death suffering and trauma. However whilst books have been devoted to dark tourism as a general topic no single text has sought to explore dark tourism in spaces where crime mass murder genocide State sanctioned torture and violence has occurred as an organising theme. Dark Tourism and Crime explores the socio cultural contours of this unique type of tourism and explains why spaces places where crime has occurred fascinate and attract tourists. The book is marked by an ethics of respect for the suffering a place has experienced and an imperative to learn something tangible about the history and legacy of that suffering. Based on empirical ethnographic research it takes the reader from the remnants of Auschwitz concentration camp to the tranquil Australian island of Tasmania to explore precisely what things a dark tourist might encounter architecture art installations gardens memorials physical traces of crime and how these things invoke and evoke past crimes This volume furthers understanding of dark tourism and will be of interest to students researchers and academics of criminology tourism and cultural studies

The Collaborator Sandra Nina Kaplan, 2001 Transdisciplinary Approaches on Reconciliation Research Francesco Ferrari, Laura Villanueva, Davide Tacchini, Binyamin Gurstein, 2024-04-15 Reconciliation studies are concerned with the processes of rebuilding and improving damaged relationships after major wrongdoings They focus on factors such as law economics and international relations as well as on elements such as emotions and ethics culture and religion media and education Reconciliation research therefore requires a transdisciplinary approach to analyse both the procedures leading to the recognition of truth as well as those in which justice is administered both the impact of public apologies and cooperation agreements both the implementation of memory policies and civil society initiatives both the outcomes of trauma therapy and intergenerational encounter groups While on the surface the relationships in question are those between states groups organisations and individuals at a deeper level reconciliation always addresses and involves many axes of damaged relationships those with others intergroup those with one's own group intragroup those with oneself those with the environment and those with transcendence Reconciliation studies deal therefore with a much broader spectrum of relationships than that taken into consideration by neighbouring disciplines such as conflict resolution and peace studies In this volume Francesco Ferrari and Davide Tacchini brought together examples of Leiner's approach to reconciliation studies as a cooperative project of different disciplines The articles are divided into two sections 1 A series of case studies about Japan South Korea relations German Czech reconciliation Nagorno Karabakh conflict using the methods of Martin Leiner Sayyid Qutb view of American society and South Africans revisiting TRC 2 A series of theoretical clarifications on reconciliation and moderation from a Palestinian point of view evolutionary game theory looking at reconciliation processes by a team of economists grace and reconciliation from a Catholic theological point of view philosophical reflections on the concept of reconciliation after Auschwitz cognitive and affective aspects in reconciliation from a Catholic theological point of view ecology and spatiality of reconciliation seen by a social geographer and political dimensions of reconciliation

Prisoners of History Keith Lowe, 2020-12-08 A look at how our monuments to World War II shape the way we think about the war by an award winning historian Keith Lowe an award winning author of books on WWII saw monuments around the world taken down in political protest and began to wonder what monuments built to commemorate WWII say about us today Focusing on these monuments Prisoners of History looks at World War II and the way it still tangibly exists within our midst He looks at all aspects of the war from the victors to the fallen from the heroes to the villains from the apocalypse to the rebuilding after devastation He focuses on twenty five monuments including The Motherland Calls in Russia the US Marine Corps Memorial in the USA Italy's Shrine to the Fallen China's Nanjing Massacre Memorial The Atomic Bomb Dome in Hiroshima the balcony at Yad Vashem in Jerusalem and The Liberation Route that runs from London to Berlin Unsurprisingly he finds that different countries view the war differently In monuments erected in the US Lowe sees triumph and patriotic dedications to the heroes In Europe the monuments are melancholy ambiguous and more often than not dedicated to the victims In these differing international views of the war Lowe sees the stone and metal expressions of sentiments that imprison us today with their unchangeable opinions Published on the 75th anniversary of the end of the war Prisoners of History is a 21st century view of a 20th century war that still haunts us today

Das Reich Max Hastings, 2013-06-15 A world renowned British historian recounts the actions of one of Hitler's most elite armor units in one of World War II's most horrific months June 1944 the month of the D Day landings carried out by Allied forces in Normandy France Germany's 2nd SS Panzer Division one of Adolf Hitler's most elite armor units had recently been pulled from the Eastern Front and relocated to France in order to regroup recruit more troops and restock equipment With Allied forces suddenly on European ground the division Das Reich was called up to counter the invasion Its march northward to the shores of Normandy 15 000 men strong would become infamous as a tale of unparalleled brutality in World War II Das Reich is Sir Max Hastings's narrative of the atrocities committed by the 2nd SS Panzer Division during June of 1944 first the execution of 99 French civilians in the village of Tulle on June 9 and second the massacre of 642 more in the village of Oradour sur Glane on June 10 Throughout the book Hastings expertly shifts perspective between French resistance fighters the British Secret Service who helped coordinate the French resistance from afar and on the ground and the German soldiers themselves With its rare unbiased approach to the ruthlessness of World War II Das Reich explores the fragile moral fabric of wartime mentality Praise for Das Reich A gripping blend of narrative and investigation Evening Standard This classic account of WWII is a microcosm of the global conflict Hastings brings to life the horror that the 2nd SS Panzer division Das Reich inflicted upon the citizens living in a bucolic corner of France Dennis Showalter author of Patton and Rommel and Hitler's Panzers

Daily Life in Nazi-Occupied Europe Harold J. Goldberg, 2019-10-25 Daily Life in Nazi Occupied Europe provides readers with information about political and military affairs economic life religious life intellectual life and other aspects of daily life in those countries occupied by Nazi Germany during World War II By the end of 1940 the Nazis controlled most of Europe and in 1941 they invaded the Soviet Union to complete their mission of domination The pattern of human resistance to the occupation was equally widespread in every country at least a significant minority of the population fought for human dignity Why did so many risk their lives and refuse to accept defeat This book goes beyond the impact of the occupation on different European countries examining that impact on individuals who regardless of what country they lived in faced a desperate search for food and the constant threat of death This volume is intended to help readers to see the variety of struggles that contributed to the defeat of the oppressive occupation imposed by the Nazis

Readers will come away with an appreciation of the fact that there were as many types of daily lives as there were individuals under the occupation and that every person in the war had a unique experience
