Chris Ammen, 2025-05-06 Discipleship Without All the Pressure If discipling your children sounds like a daunting shame filled impossibility you're not alone As a children's pastor and father of four Chris Ammen has experienced your frustration firsthand and understands that most parents feel inadequate for the task But what if our inadequacy isn't a failure but is just the place from which God chooses to work In his debut book Chris celebrates the freedom we have to disciple our children from a place of weakness and dependency on God while uncovering these key truths Truth 1 You are not the lynchpin of your child's journey of discipleship God is Truth 2 Discipleship is nothing less than God molding and shaping the entirety of our personhood into his image as those who delight in him and bring him glory Truth 3 You're not qualified to disciple your children But God is And he can work through you to move your children closer to becoming more like his son Jesus Let's explore together what discipleship is and isn't and what we can do to partner with God in loving and discipling our kids

Whose Urban Renaissance? Libby Porter,Kate Shaw,2009-01-13 The desire of governments for a renaissance of their cities is a defining feature of contemporary urban policy From Melbourne and Toronto to Johannesburg and Istanbul government policies are successfully attracting investment and middle class populations to their inner areas Regeneration or gentrification as it can often become produces winners and losers There is a substantial literature on the causes and unequal effects of gentrification and on the global and local conditions driving processes of dis and re investment But there is little examination of the actual strategies used to achieve urban regeneration what were their intents did they succeed and if not why not and what were the specific consequences Whose Urban Renaissance asks who benefits from these urban transformations The book contains beautifully written and accessible stories from researchers and activists in 21 cities across Europe North and South America Asia South Africa the Middle East and Australia each exploring a specific case of urban regeneration Some chapters focus on government or market strategies driving the regeneration process and look closely at the effects Others look at the local contingencies that influence the way these strategies work Still others look at instances of opposition and struggle and at policy interventions that were used in some places to ameliorate the inequities of gentrification Working from these stories the editors develop a comparative analysis of regeneration strategies with nuanced assessments of local constraints and counteracting policy responses The concluding chapters provide a critical comparison of existing strategies and open new directions for more equitable policy approaches in the future Whose Urban Renaissance is targeted at students academics planners policy makers and activists The book is unique in its geographical breadth and its constructive policy emphasis offering a succinct critical and timely exploration of urban regeneration strategies throughout the world

Building a Collaborative Advantage Carey Doberstein,2016-11-14 Homelessness is not a historical accident We know that it is the disastrous outcome of policy decisions made over time and at several levels of government Yet conventional theories in political science and public administration fail to explain why some approaches work while others fail In Building a Collaborative Advantage Carey Doberstein draws on network governance theory extended participant observation and more than sixty interviews with key policy figures to investigate how government and civil society actors in three major Canadian cities have organized themselves to solve public problems In Vancouver and Calgary where governance networks include affordable housing providers mental health professionals Aboriginal community members representatives of drop in centres and others with lived experience homelessness is on the decline In Toronto where municipal decision making was closed to civil society actors during the period of investigation homelessness levels remained stagnant

Doberstein concludes that having a progressive city council is not enough Civil society organizations and actors must have genuine access to the channels of government power in order to work with policy makers to develop innovative and comprehensive solutions
