The Planetary Clock Paul Giles, 2021-02-11 The theme of The Planetary Clock is the representation of time in postmodern culture and the way temporality as a global phenomenon manifests itself differently across an antipodean axis To trace postmodernism in an expansive spatial and temporal arc from its formal experimentation in the 1960s to environmental concerns in the twenty first century is to describe a richer and more complex version of this cultural phenomenon Exploring different scales of time from a Southern Hemisphere perspective with a special emphasis on issues of Indigeneity and the Anthropocene The Planetary Clock offers a wide ranging revisionist account of postmodernism reinterpreting literature film music and visual art of the post 1960 period within a planetary framework By bringing the culture of Australia and New Zealand into dialogue with other Western narratives it suggests how an antipodean impulse involving the transposition of the world into different spatial and temporal dimensions has long been an integral if generally occluded aspect of postmodernism Taking its title from a Florentine clock designed in 1510 to measure worldly time alongside the rotation of the planets The Planetary Clock ranges across well known American postmodernists John Barth Toni Morrison to more recent science fiction writers Octavia Butler Richard Powers while bringing the US tradition into juxtaposition with both its English Philip Larkin Ian McEwan and Australian Les Murray Alexis Wright counterparts By aligning cultural postmodernism with music Messiaen Ligeti Birtwistle the visual arts Hockney Blackman Fiona Hall and cinema Rohmer Haneke Tarantino this volume enlarges our understanding of global postmodernism for the twenty first century righteous The publishing history of these poets demonstrates both the opposition to such an aesthetic and the necessity for it

Inventing God Jon Mills, 2016-07-22 In this controversial book philosopher and psychoanalyst Jon Mills argues that God does not exist and more provocatively that God cannot exist as anything but an idea Put concisely God is a psychological creation signifying ultimate ideality Mills argues that the idea or conception of God is the manifestation of humanity's denial and response to natural deprivation a self relation to an internalized idealized object the idealization of imagined value After demonstrating the lack of any empirical evidence and the logical impossibility of God Mills explains the psychological motivations underlying humanity's need to invent a supreme being In a highly nuanced analysis of unconscious processes informing the psychology of belief and institutionalized social ideology he concludes that belief in God is the failure to accept our impending death and mourn natural absence for the delusion of divine presence As an alternative to theistic faith he offers a secular spirituality that emphasizes the quality of lived experience the primacy of feeling and value inquiry ethical self consciousness aesthetic and ecological sensibility and authentic relationality toward self other and world as the pursuit of a beautiful soul in search of the numinous Inventing God will be of interest to academics scholars lay audiences and students of religious studies the humanities philosophy and psychoanalysis among other disciplines It will also appeal to psychotherapists psychoanalysts and mental health professionals focusing on the integration of humanities and psychoanalysis

The American Classics Denis Donoghue, 2008-10-01 How is a classic book to be defined How much time must elapse before a work may be judged a classic And among all the works of American literature which deserve the designation In this provocative new book Denis Donoghue essays to answer these questions He presents his own short list of relative classics works whose appeal may not be universal but which nonetheless have occupied an important place in our culture for more than a century These books have survived the abuses of time neglect contempt indifference willful readings excesses of praise and hyperbole Donoghue bestows the term classic on just five American works Melville's Moby Dick Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter Thoreau's Walden Whitman's Leaves of Grass and Twain's Adventures of Huckleberry Finn Examining each in a separate chapter he discusses how the writings have been received and interpreted and he offers his own contemporary readings suggesting for example that in the post 9 11 era Moby

Dick may be rewardingly read as a revenge tragedy Donoghue extends an irresistible invitation to open the pages of these American classics again demonstrating with wit and acuity how very much they have to say to us now The Birth and Death of the Author Andrew J. law     Thoreau's Living Ethics Philip Cafaro, 2010-01-25 Thoreau's Living Ethics is the first full rigorous account of Henry Thoreau's ethical philosophy. Focused on Walden but ranging widely across his writings, the study situates Thoreau within a long tradition of ethical thinking in the West from the ancients to the Romantics and on to the present day. Philip Cafaro shows Thoreau grappling with important ethical questions that agitated his own society and discusses his value for those seeking to understand contemporary ethical issues. Cafaro's particular interest is in Thoreau's treatment of virtue ethics, the branch of ethics centered on personal and social flourishing. Ranging across the central elements of Thoreau's philosophy—life, virtue, economy, solitude, and society, nature, and politics—Cafaro shows Thoreau developing a comprehensive virtue ethics less based in ancient philosophy than many recent efforts and more grounded in modern life and experience. He presents Thoreau's evolutionary, experimental ethics as superior to the more static foundational efforts of current virtue ethicists. Another main focus is Thoreau's environmental ethics. The book shows Thoreau not only anticipating recent arguments for wild nature's intrinsic value but also demonstrating how a personal connection to nature furthers self-development, moral character, knowledge, and creativity. Thoreau's life and writings, argues Cafaro, present a positive, life-affirming environmental ethics combining respect and restraint with an appreciation for human possibilities for flourishing within nature.     Geoffrey Hill

John Lyon, Peter McDonald, 2012-06-14 A collection of scholarly essays on Geoffrey Hill, including pioneering work by Rowan Williams and Christopher Ricks, which provides insights into the cultural, literary, political, and theological complexities of a figure thought by many to be the finest living English poet.
