out the weaknesses of each theory before proposing a new theory to explain the justification of self defence The new theory is that for the full justification of self defence a balance of interests must be struck between the expected physical injury to the attacked person and the expected physical injury to the aggressor as well as the relevant abstract factors the autonomy of the attacked person the culpability of the aggressor and the social legal order The author demonstrates how ignoring one or more of these factors leads to erroneous results and how the proposed rationale can be applied to develop solutions to the complex questions raised
