Sector Investment Programs In Africa Issues And Experiences:

Sector Investment Programs in Africa Stephen P. Jones, 1997-01-01 South Asia has made much progress in deregulation and liberalization in the 1990s but it still remains one of the least integrated regions in the world. However, this general trend masks wide disparities among South Asian nations: the larger economies tend to be more highly protected with low import penetration rates, while the smaller economies are relatively more open. If the current reform program continues, the benefits of liberalization will translate into higher growth. This report reviews the region's economic performance from an international perspective and the steps taken to increase integration, especially in terms of financial integration, increased foreign direct investment portfolio and capital flows, and regional integration, intra-regional trade, regional arrangements. Chapters also discuss the economic outlook for the region and prospects for South Asian exports such as textiles and clothing.

Agriculture Sector Programs Nwanze Okidegbe, 1998-01-01 This sourcebook provides practical guidance to policymakers and program planners in countries and to development agencies on how to carry out or support an agricultural sector program from initial discussions to developing the program concept to securing broad stakeholder involvement to implementation. It explains the reasons why countries may wish to undertake a sector or subsector program and describes the conditions which can help ensure the program's success. It provides details on how to formulate a sector strategy and bring about institutional reforms, focuses on core public sector activities based on a detailed expenditure review, and suggests ways of encouraging donors to work together under the leadership of the partner country government.

Education and Health in Sub-Saharan Africa, 2001-01-01 This book discusses the prevalent process of commodity market reform in the specific context of cocoa, coffee, cotton, grains, and sugar markets and provides lessons by selectively drawing on cross-country experience in those markets. The commodity markets covered in this book deserve special attention for the following reasons:

- A They play an important role in many developing countries.
- A These markets illustrate how well special features can influence the reform process and illustrate the importance of taking initial conditions into account when designing reform.
- A Experience from commodity markets illustrates how long-standing interventions can crowd out markets and institutions geared toward the support of private markets.
- A Close examination of liberalization at the commodity level shows the practical ways that changes in marketing systems can result in a shift in political power away from the government and toward the private sector in the design and implementation of commodity subsector policies.

This book focuses on commodity-specific conditions that quickened or slowed the pace of reform and looks at the relationship between changing markets and institutions. It argues that the benefits of market reform and trade liberalization are only fully realized when the supporting factor markets and the institutions work.

Environmental Management and Institutions in OECD Countries Magda Lovei, Charles Weiss, 1998 As environmental protection is attracting increasing political attention and public support, many developing countries are designing and putting into practice environmental institutions. This study analyzes the experience of several OECD countries in order to identify factors that influence the role and success of environmental management possible causes of the discrepancy between national environmental objectives and actual performance and implications of lessons learned and recommendations for countries that are in the process of establishing or redesigning their environmental management systems The Pharmaceutical Industry in India and Hungary Shekhar Chaudhuri, Katalin György, 1997-01-01

World Bank Technical Paper No 376 Roads are agents of change and can be responsible for both benefits and damage to the existing balance between people and their environment This handbook examines specific road projects ranging from minor rehabilitation and maintenance activities on existing roads to major works on new alignments It provides a description of practical methods for designing and executing effective environmental assessments that are useful to those who are involved in various aspects of road projects from planning to construction to maintenance Designing Rules for Demand-driven

Rural Investment Funds Thomas B. Wiens, Maurizio Guadagni, 1998-01-01 The demand driven rural investment fund DRIF is a new mechanism for decentralizing decisionmaking authority and financial resources to local governments and communities to use for investments of their choice To counteract the local government s weak capacity to choose and implement projects well central governments have often constrained the choices of communities by limiting the types of projects eligible for financing and requiring specific procedures for procurement and disbursement This study explores the extent to which well designed DRIF rules and incentive structures can substitute for central control It looks at the different and often conflicting motivations of donors central governments and communities and explores how rules can be devised to allow actors to achieve their objectives Experiences with Integrated-conservation Development Projects in Asia

Malcolm Jansen, Susan Shen, 1997-01-01 China is in the throes of two transitions from a command economy to a market based one and from a rural agricultural society to an urban industrial one So far both transitions have been spectacularly successful China is the fastest growing economy in the world with per capita incomes more than quadrupling since 1978 achieving in two generations what took other countries centuries Although swift growth and structural change have resolved many problems they also have created new challenges employment insecurity growing inequality stubborn poverty mounting environmental pressures rising costs of food self sufficiency and periods of macroeconomic instability stemming from incomplete reforms Unmet these challenges could undermine the sustainability of growth and China s promise could fade China 2020 a seven volume set examines China s recent history where it is today and the path it should follow during the first two decades of the 21st century The volume in the set entitled At Chinas Table Food Security Options focuses on how China will avoid national chronic food insecurity The report evaluates solutions such as food storage and other alternatives for addressing the problems of transitory food insecurity from drought or other seasonal calamity It discusses national food security constraints and the investments required to maintain total factor productivity of 1 0 percent per year The study also models and projects food supply and demand for 2020 Economic Research on the Determinants of Immigration George J.

Borjas,1999-01-01 This publication summarizes some of the key research findings from current literature and applies the lessons from it to the potential migration problem faced by countries in the EU Its main objective is to present a review of existing economic theory and empirical evidence to evaluate the likelihood of migration flows from acceding or neighboring countries toward the current EU member states This publication is a Technical Paper sponsored by the Poverty Reduction and Economic Management Network of the World Bank s Europe and Central Asia Division It is part of a comprehensive series regarding the many important factors that influence European Union EU accession in the Central and East European countries CEEC The topics in the series cover both the social and economic aspects of accession across a broad range of sectors The series also provides background information for specific acceding countries These publications will be of interest to EU member and candidate countries their ministries and any one studying the accession issue

Court Performance Around the World Maria Dakolias,1999-01-01 World Bank Technical Paper no 430 QUOTEMany countries are undertaking legal and judicial reforms as part of their overall development programs there is increasing recognition that economic and social progress requires consolidation of democracy as well as respect for the rule of law and human rights without these development is not sustainable QUOTEMany developing countries find that their judiciaries are inconsistent in conflict resolution and carry a large backlog of cases thus stifling private sector growth eroding individual and property rights and perhaps even violating human rights Delays affect both the fairness and the efficiency of the system They impede the public s access to the courts which in effect weakens democracies the rule of law and the ability to enforce human rights This paper aims to describe and explain the performance of court systems in a sample of developing and developed countries in order to provide data to those designing or evaluating reforms The study also seeks to show areas in which international comparison of judicial performance can be fruitful suggesting indicators that can be used in such comparisons Finally it endeavors to provide comparisons of performance within individual countries over time

Management of Water Resources Musa Asad,1999-01-01 Although procedures for pricing retail distribution have been established for a long time methods for pricing bulk or wholesale water supplies are still evolving How to finance the infrastructure and service of bulk water supply and how to use pricing to achieve efficient allocation and use of water as a resource are the central issues that emerge from discussions about bulk water pricing Efficiency will lead to allocating water resources better reducing water losses caused by poor maintenance of the supply systems and increased monitoring of water quality At first glance Brazil may not appear to be a relevant country from which to draw lessons in distributing scarce water resources since it contains 12 percent of the world s fresh water supply However with its vast territory and issues of regional drought and population explosion Brazil provides a unique environment in which to demonstrate how adequate pricing of bulk water on a regional level can help allocate water efficiently This paper offers a framework for bulk water pricing reform and examines the lessons from recent analytical work and practice in Brazil as well as relevant international experience It then offers recommendations for the development of both water pricing and allocation policies to facilitate continued implementation of bulk water pricing in Brazil
