Nationalism In Rubia And Central Asian Republics:

Nationalism and Identity Construction in Central Asia Mariya Y. Omelicheva, 2014-12-17 More than two decades after the break up of the Soviet Union Central Asian republics Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan continue to reexamine and debate whom and what they represent Nationalism and Identity Construction in Central Asia explores the complex and controversial process of identity formation in the region using a 3D framework which stands for Dimensions Dynamics and Directions of nation building The first part of the framework dimensions underscores the new and complex ways in which nationalisms and identities manifest themselves in Central Asia The second part dynamics is premised on the idea that nationalisms and identity construction in the Central Asian republics may indicate some continuities with the past but are more concerned with legitimization of the present power politics in these states It calls for the identification of the main actors strategies tactics interests and reactions to the processes of nationalism and identity construction The third part of the framework directions addresses implications of nationalisms and identity construction in Central Asia for regional and international peace and cooperation Jointly the chapters of the volume address domestic and international level dimensions dynamics and directions of identity formation in Central Asia What unites these works is their shared modern and post modern understanding of nations nationalisms and identities as discursive strategic and tactical formations They are viewed as constructed and imagined and therefore continuously changing but also fragmented and contested

Nationalism in Russia and Central Asian Republics Shams-ud-din, 1999 Contributed articles presented at two seminars held during 1996 and 1998

Nationalism and Identity Construction in Central Asia Mariya Y. Omelicheva, 2015 This edited volume scrutinizes the nature and discourses of nationalisms and identity construction in the post Soviet Central Asian republics and elucidates the main strategies and tactics employed at various levels of identity construction in these states

Central Asia and the Caucasus Touraj Atabaki, Sanjyot Mehendale, 2004-11-10 Since the collapse of the Soviet Union a number of linkages have been established between newly independent Central Asian states or populations within them and diaspora ethnic groups This book explores the roles that diaspora communities play in the recent and ongoing emergence of national identities in Central Asia and the Caucasus The loyalties of these communities are divided between their countries of residence and those states that serve as homeland of their particular ethno cultural nation and are further complicated by connections with contested transnational notions of common cultures and peoples Written by highly respected experts in the field the book addresses issues such as nationalism conflict population movement global civil society Muslim communities in China and relations between the new nation states and Russia This innovative book will interest students and researchers of transnationalism and Central Asian studies

Regime Transition in Central Asia Dagikhudo Dagiev, 2013-10-30 Presenting a study of regime transition political transformation and the challenges that faced the post Communist republics of Central Asia on independence this book focuses on the process of transition in Tajikistan and Uzbekistan and the obstacles that these newly independent states are facing in the post Communist period The book analyses how in the early stages of their independence the governments of Central Asia declared that they would build democratic states but that in practice they demonstrated that they are more inclined towards authoritarianism With the declaration of independence Tajikistan and Uzbekistan like many other former Soviet national republics were faced with the issues of nationalism ethnicity identity and territorial delimitation This book looks at how the discourse of patrimonial nationalism in post Communist Tajikistan and Uzbekistan has been the elites strategy to address all these issues to maintain the stateness of their respective countries to preserve the unity of their nation to fill the ideological void of post Communism to prevent the rise of Islam and to legitimize their authoritarian practice Arguing against the claim that the Central Asian states have undergone divergent paths of transition the book discusses how they are in fact all authoritarian although exhibiting different degrees of authoritarianism This book provides a useful contribution to studies on Central Asian Politics and International Relations Russia's Central Asia Policy and the Role of Russian Nationalism Marlène Laruelle, 2008 Issues concerning relations between Russia and Central Asia in the geostrategic and economic realms are well known Much has been said about the rapprochement between these countries which has been very visible since 2000 and even more pronounced since 2005 as it undermines the power of influence the United States and Europe have in the region But very little is known about the specific place that Central Asia occupies in Russian political and intellectual life However with the rise of nationalism and xenophobia in Russian society a detailed analysis is warranted of the opinions held by the various nationalist currents in relation to Central Asia For many years a profound reordering of the Russian political scene has been underway the so called liberal currents have been marginalized while the nationalist parties have enjoyed a rapid rise

Central Asia Vladimir Fedorenko, 2012 Recently there was a wave of celebration of the 20th anniversary of independence in all Central Asian states yet their nation building process is not complete and the perception of the national identity is still distorted By its nature national identity should bring people together and unite them around common values and goals in Central Asian states however national identity conceived on ethnic basis is a divisive force fragmenting people along the lines of ethnicity religion language birth place and social status After the collapse of the Soviet Union Central Asian republics Kazakhstan Turkmenistan Uzbekistan Tajikistan and Kyrgyzstan faced the difficult task of state and nation building Although every Central Asian nation had its own challenges determined by its geography ethnic and cultural composition availability of natural resources and other factors all of them faced same complexity that hindered the attaining of unity in those countries As a result of abrupt dissolution of the Soviet Union politically unstable economically weak and interdependent institutionally unprepared and socially disorientated Central Asian states were in a serious crisis In order to forge a new national identity the political elites in all five Central Asian states decided to implement a nation building policy based on ethnicity Ethnic nationalism was convenient and promising strategy capable of providing a sense of stability by uniting majority groups around the common and powerful link of ethnicity In order to increase people s attachment to these new national identities attractive myths regarding ethnic identities were created In all of the Central Asian countries the strategy of creating a national myth was similar It consisted of rewriting history in order to show a strong attachment of the majority group to the present geographical location of the country as well as of choosing a historical figure that boosted the national pride of the dominant ethnic group Consequently Uzbeks have been putting emphasis on being successors of the famous conqueror Tamerlane who established Timurid Empire Kyrgyz have been promoting the image of the mythical hero Manas and Tajiks have been rediscovering their history that was linked to the Samanid Empire ruled by Ismail Samani Kazakhs have been promoting nomadic culture and traditions and Turkmen have been focusing on the Turkmen spiritual leader Magtymguly Pyragy However an important barrier to the nation building process around single ethnicity is the fact that most Central Asian states are multiethnic and multicultural societies Thus while ethnic nationalism provides the majority group a sense of belonging to the nation minority ethnic groups in Central Asia do not easily embrace this new national identity and feel excluded from the nation building process Moreover majority ethnic groups also realize their dominance and often treat minorities unjustly This creates tension and conflicts among the different ethnic groups This paper addresses the question of how Central Asian societies can move away from divisive to inclusive form of nationalism

Summary Russia and Nationalism in Central Asia Teresa Rakowska-Harmstone, George Washington University. Institute for Sino-Soviet Studies, 1970

The Soviet Legacy in Central Asia J. Glenn, 1999-08-05 This book analyses the new pattern of security concerns of the Central Asian successor states This region is said to encompass Kazakhstan Uzbekistan Tadzhikistan Kirghizstan and Turkmenistan The main contention of the book is that the security problems of these states are similar to those that faced other Third World countries after they attained independence That is due to the arbitrary creation of these states by external powers they lack a certain degree of societal cohesiveness arising from the fact that several ethnic communities reside within their borders It is this so called insecurity dilemma of each of the Central Asian states that is therefore examined

Central Peripheries LARUELLE, 2021-07 A comprehensive study of nation building in post Soviet Central Asia Committed to internationalism Kazakhstan and other central Asian states nevertheless embrace classically nationalist conceptions of the nation state Their unabashed celebration of borders and citizenship challenges Western views of nationalism as a dying ideology transcended by cosmopolitanism Drawing on twenty years of fieldwork Central Peripheries reveals the origin of central Asian national consciousness in imaginary and ritualized efforts to grapple with the Soviet past
