Nato And The Bomb Canadian Defenders Confront Critics

David Krieger

Nato And The Bomb Canadian Defenders Confront Critics:

NATO and the Bomb Erika Simpson, 2001-03-29 Using a new conceptual framework this study documents and analyses the underlying convictions of influential Canadians explains why there were such varied degrees of support for NATO and shows why different leaders either supported or rejected nuclear weapons and the stationing of the Canadian Forces in Europe Examples taken from previously classified documents illustrate how the underlying convictions of leaders such as Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau significantly shaped defence policy Behind the scenes maneuvering and competing beliefs about nuclear weapons deterrence strategy and possible entrapment in a nuclear war led some to defend and others to criticize Canada's approach to both NATO and the bomb Despite the technological ability and resources to develop its own nuclear weapons or to acquire them from the United States Canada ultimately chose not to become a nuclear power Why did some Canadian leaders defend the nuclear option and urge the deployment of the Canadian Forces in Europe Why did others condemn the country's nuclear commitments and call for an end to the arms race Simpson shows that some leaders rejected prevailing American defence strategy and weapons systems to pursue alternative approaches to managing Canada's complex bilateral and multilateral defence relationships NATO and the Bomb Erika Simpson, 2001 Annotation Employing previously classified Cabinet minutes memoranda letters diaries drafts of speeches and other documents Simpson political science U of Western Ontario analyzes the underlying beliefs and assumptions of high level policymakers responsible for shaping Canada's approach to NATO in the cold war years For over 30 years two conflicting belief systems the defenders and the critics Significantly influenced Canada's shifting defense policy particularly in the areas of nuclear weapons acquisitions and Canadian troop contributions to Europe Simpson's analysis helps explain contemporary defense decisions and Canada's fluctuating attitudes toward NATO which have puzzled Americans and Europeans Annotation c Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com

The Challenge of Abolishing Nuclear Weapons David Krieger, 2017-07-05 In the more than sixty years since the advent of nuclear weapons there has been little meaningful progress toward nuclear disarmament Some countries have nuclear weapons while other states are forbidden to acquire them a status quo that lacks rational basis and cannot be sustained In this remarkable collection scholars and policy analysts argue that humankind has a choice either allow nuclear weapons to continue to proliferate throughout the world or move toward their complete elimination The vast majority of people on the planet would surely opt to abolish nuclear weapons But decisions about nuclear weapons are not made by the public but by small groups of political elites Consequently in a world with nuclear weapons the fate of humanity rests in the hands of a small number of individuals whose perceptions communications and judgment determine whether there is to be a future The contributors to this volume provide historical perspective on nuclear weapons policy explore the role of international law in furthering the prospects of nuclear weapons abolition consider the obstacles to abolition present a path to achieving a nuclear weapons free world and look beyond abolition to consider issues of post abolition sovereignty and general and complete disarmament The goal of a nuclear weapons free world can be awakened by an engaged citizenry bringing pressure from below in demanding action from political leaders This book contributes to this awakening and engagement Camelot and Canada Asa McKercher, 2016-06-20 In 1958 Senator John F Kennedy of Massachusetts proclaimed at the University of New Brunswick that Canada and the United States have carefully maintained the good fences that help make them good neighbours He could not have foreseen that his presidency would be marked not just by some of the tensest moments of the Cold War but also by the most contentious moments in the Canadian American relationship Indeed the 1963 Canadian federal election was marked by charges that the US government had engineered a plot to oust John Diefenbaker Canada's nationalist prime minister Camelot and Canada explores political economic and military elements in Canada US relations in the early 1960s Asa McKercher challenges the prevailing view that US foreign policymakers including President Kennedy were imperious in their conduct toward Canada Rather he shows that the period continued to be marked by the special diplomatic relationship that characterized the early postwar years Even as Diefenbaker's government pursued distinct foreign and economic policies American officials acknowledged that Canadian objectives legitimately differed from their own and adjusted their policies accordingly Moreover for all its bluster Ottawa rarely moved without weighing the impact that its initiatives might have on Washington At the same time McKercher illustrates that there were significant strains on the bilateral relationship which occurred as a result of mounting doubts in Canada about US leadership in the Cold War growing Canadian nationalism and Canadian concern over their country's close economic military and cultural ties with the United States While personal clashes between the two leaders have become mythologized by historians and the public alike the special relationship between their governments continued to function Statebuilding in Afghanistan Nik Hynek, Péter Marton, 2012-02-06 This edited volume maps and theorizes NATO ISAF's multi national contribution to peacebuilding and reconstruction in Afghanistan It answers key questions through a series of case studies which together form a comparative study of national contributions to the multilateral mission in Afghanistan The Nuclear North Susan Colbourn, Timothy Andrews Sayle, 2020-10-01 Since the first atomic weapon was detonated in 1945 Canadians have debated not only the role of nuclear power in their uranium rich land but also their country's role in a nuclear world The Nuclear North investigates critical questions in these ongoing debates Should Canada belong to international alliances that depend on the threat of using nuclear weapons for their own security Should Canadian produced nuclear technologies be exported to potential proliferators Does the country's championing of arms control and disarmament on the global stage matter What about the domestic costs of nuclear technologies and atomic research including their impact on local communities and the environment The contributors to this important collection consider how the atomic age has shaped Canadian policies at home and abroad Their incisive assessment of the country's nuclear history engages with much larger debates about national identity Canadian foreign policy contradictions during the Cold War and Canada's place in the international order Pathogens for War Donald H. Avery, 2013-04-28 Pathogens for War explores how Canada and its allies have attempted to deal with the threat of germ warfare one of the most fearful weapons of mass destruction since the Second World War In addressing this subject distinguished historian Donald Avery investigates the relationship between bioweapons poison gas and nuclear devices as well as the connection between bioattacks and natural disease pandemics Avery emphasizes the crucially important activities of Canadian biodefence scientists beginning with Nobel Laureate Frederick Banting at both the national level and through cooperative projects within the framework of an elaborate alliance system Delving into history through a rich collection of declassified documents Pathogens for War also devotes several chapters to the contemporary challenges of bioterrorism and disease pandemics from both national and international perspectives As such readers will not only learn about Canada's secret involvement with biological warfare but will also gain new insights into current debates about the peril of bioweapons one of today's greatest threats to world peace The Life and Death of International Treaties Jeffrey S. Lantis, 2009

This book represents one of the first comparative studies of international treaty ratification processes in multiple issue areas It employs the comparative case study method drawing on original research elite interviews and discursive analyses of government documents in Europe Australia and North America The Politics of Procurement Aaron
Plamondon, 2010-07-01 In 1993 Canada's Liberal Party cancelled an order to replace the Sea King maritime helicopter The Liberals claimed the Tory plan was too expensive but the cancellation itself actually cost taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars The incident drew public attention to the waste in Canada's defence spending and to the under equipped state of its military Aaron Plamondon ties the bungled attempts to replace the Sea King before and since 1993 to the evolution of the weapons procurement process in Canada since Confederation He reveals that partisan politics rather than a desire to increase the military's capabilities has driven the nation's policy makers Special Bibliography Series ,1957
