Dangerous Peace Alpo M Rusi, 2021-11-28 Alpo Rusi provides a broad vision of the strategic landscape for the coming century warning against dangers inherent in the emerging world order He predicts a more complex and potentially hostile multipolar system based on four or five rival trading blocs Despite the centrality of trade rivalries the role of military force will not vanish Although he considers superpower conflict unlikely he expects that lower level conflicts will become more prevalent Consequently Rusi believes that the trading blocs will have to actively pursue security arrangements that will safeguard the traditional role of the nation state. Examining the international system from a geopolitical and geoeconomic perspective, Alpo Rusi provides a broad vision and bold forecast of the emerging strategic landscape for the coming century. An asymmetrical world system is emerging. The United States is now the sole true world power; it forms the core of a unipolar order characterized by an uneven division of world power and economic resources. Rusi argues, however, that this post-Cold War order will not survive into the next century. Rusi suggests that the power vacuum in the former Soviet empire will be filled by China in Asia and by the European Union in Eastern Europe. Russia's disintegration and decline in world power status will continue but may have reached its bottom line economically, and Islam will gain strength in various parts of the world, embracing a new international role. He also predicts that the world will be split into four or five distinct trading blocs: a European bloc formed around the European Union, an East Asian bloc, potentially strong, interventionist, and even aggressive, formed around China and the Singapore economic region, Japan as a strong and still competitive economic power, and a Pan American bloc, also strong but potentially isolationist, formed around the United States. One of the question marks will be the future ability of an orthodox Russia to facilitate conditions for an economic space. According to Rusi, these trading blocs will develop new political or geopolitical interests. For example, the European bloc will extract fossil fuels from the former Soviet Union instead of the Middle East, thereby changing the existing global trade system. Each bloc will have certain internal problems: the Europeans will be linked to the unstable successors to the Soviet Union; the East Asian Bloc will have to contemplate whether China's economic growth and geopolitical expansions will create a new bipolar world in the early twenty-first century; and the Pan American bloc will struggle with continuing political and economic instability in South and Central America. Finally, Rusi warns that it is crucial for the European and Pan American blocs to build upon the traditional Euro-Atlantic relationship. Without it, he argues, a truly polarized and potentially hostile bloc system will take root, most likely lining the Western pan-regions against China's expansiveness.

The Rise and Decline of the Post-Cold War International Order Hanns W. Maull, 2018-10-25. This book surveys the evolution of the international order in the quarter century since the end of the Cold War through the prism of developments in key regional and functional parts of the liberal international order 2010 and the roles played by two key ordering powers, the United States and the People's Republic of China. Among the partial orders analysed in the individual chapters are the regions of Europe, the Middle East, and East Asia, and the international regimes dealing with international trade, climate change, nuclear weapons, cyber space, and international public health emergencies such as SARS and ZIKA. To assess developments in these various segments of the LIO 2010 and to relate them to developments in the two other crucial levels of political order—order within nation states and at the global level—the volume develops a comprehensive, integrated framework of analysis that allows systematic comparison of developments across boundaries between segments and different levels of the international order. Using this framework, the book presents a holistic assessment of the trajectory of the international order over the last decades the rise decline and demise of the LIO 2 0 and causes of the dangerous erosion of international order over the last decade

Supranationalism in the New World Order P. Close, E. Ohki-Close, 1999-01-29 In the post Cold War New World Order the European Union EU is among a growing number of regional regimes that are acquiring prominent roles in the process of global governance The EU is the most advanced and influential regional regime by virtue of being constructed around the supranational European Community EC However the evident competitive advantages of supranationalism will foster the consolidation and proliferation of supranational regional regimes in a manner consistent with the neo functionalist understanding of such organisations

Global Order and Global Disorder Keith Suter, 2003-05-30 Is the world entering a period of breakdown or breakthrough As Suter makes clear globalization is reducing the role of national governments but it is not yet clear what will follow the current world order He explains the process of globalization and uses the technique of scenario planning to examine alternative forms of global order and disorder The current world order is ending The old order has been based on nation states or countries with centralized national governments As Keith Suter makes clear the process of globalization which is now the most important factor in world politics is undermining that world order and leading to world disorder Globalization is the process of the erosion of the nation state as the basic unit of world politics the declining power of national governments and the reduced significance of national boundaries Global change is running ahead of governments abilities to manage it Economics is only a part of that process Suter also deals with other vital concerns war crime environment and health Therefore while Suter examines the growth and impact of transnational corporations he also takes in many other matters that comprise globalization The process of globalization is not reversible Therefore there has to be a search for a new order rather than vain efforts to patch up the system of the nation states Suter concludes by exploring alternatives to the current world order using the technique of scenario planning A provocative analysis that will be of interest to scholars students researchers and the general public concerned with international relations law and economic issues
