Order, Contestation and Ontological Security-Seeking in the South China Sea Anisa Heritage,Pak K.

Lee,2020-01-22 This book examines the South China Sea territorial disputes from the perspective of international order The authors argue that both China and the US are attempting to impose their respective preferred orders to the region and that the observed disputes are due to the clash of two competing order building projects Ordering the maritime space is essential for these two countries to validate their national identities and to achieve ontological security Because both are ontological security seeking states this imperative gives them little room for striking a grand bargain between them The book focuses on how China and the US engage in practices and discourses that build contest and legitimise the two major ordering projects they promote in the region It concludes that China must act in its legitimation strategy in accordance with contemporary publicly accepted norms and rules to create a legitimate maritime order while the US should support ASEAN in devising a multilateral resolution of the disputes      Order for the Oceans at the Turn of the Century Davor Vidas,Willy

Østreng,2024-01-08 This book is a state of the art report on ocean law and politics today written by 40 contributors from six continents At this important early stage of implementation of the Law of the Sea Convention this book assesses where we have been going in the past decade and charts the way ahead Implementation of the Convention from the perspective of interaction of politics and law is the unifying theme of the book Under this three basic aspects have emerged as crucial during the 1990s 1 evolution of new regimes 2 institutionalisation and 3 new patterns of participation These are explored systematically in sections on the Convention its implementing agreements and related international institutions Parts I and II interaction of law of the sea with other regimes including those for polar regions Parts III and IV the various levels international national and transnational and actors involved in the implementation of the Convention Part V and a number of salient issues in implementation today Part VI      Global Marine Environment Herman Prager,1993 This study focuses on the state system and the problem of ocean degradation as practiced in the West specifically the Western industrial market economies The author locates the source of the ecological problem in the allocation of power and values in a society the differing public policies in response to divergent appreciations on the nature of social challenges and appropriate responses This book is a valuable contribution to the collective efforts to educate the public about the worsening global crisis His approach combines biology chemistry and political science in its discussion of the tragic destruction of our oceans Contents The Evolution of the Contemporary State System Theoretical Aspects of the Current State System The Physical State of the Ocean and the Pollution Crisis The Contribution of Intergovernmental Organizations INGOs and Cetacean Protection Conclusions      Maritime Disputes and International Law Constantinos Yiallourides,2019-05-20 The settlement of the maritime boundary disputes between China and Japan in the East China Sea and between Greece and Turkey in the Aegean

Sea is politically deadlocked While diplomatic settlement efforts have been ongoing for the past several decades neither side in each case appears prepared to back down from its respective maritime and territorial claims Several incidents at sea have occurred prompting diplomatic protests military standoffs even exchange of fire The existing status quo is inherently unstable and does not favour either side to the extent that it holds hostage the multiple benefits that could otherwise be generated from the exploitation of the seabed energy and mineral resources in the disputed waters creating an urgent need for a meaningful discussion on finding a practical way forward This monograph undertakes a comprehensive analysis of these disputes based on the rules and principles of international law critically evaluating possible institutional designs of inter State cooperation over seabed activities in disputed maritime areas and makes recommendations for the prospect of realising joint development regimes in the East China Sea and the Aegean to coordinate the exploration for and exploitation of resources without having resorted previously to boundary delimitation settlement
