An Architecture of Invitation Sarah Menin, Stephen Kite, 2018-12-13 First published in 2005 An Architecture of invitation Colin St John Wilson is a distinctive study of the life and architectural career of one of the most significant makers theorists and teachers of architecture to have emerged in England in the second half of the twentieth century Exceptionally in an architectural study this book interweaves biography critical analysis of the projects and theory in its aims of explicating the richness of Wilson's body of work thought and teaching Drawing on the specialisms of its authors it also examines the creative and psychological impulses that have informed the making of the work an oeuvre whose experiential depth is recognised by both users and critics

Apocalyptic Discourse in Contemporary Culture Monica Germana, Aris Mousoutzanis, 2014-09-15 This interdisciplinary collection of essays focuses on critical and theoretical responses to the apocalypse of the late twentieth and early twenty first century cultural production Examining the ways in which apocalyptic discourses have had an impact on how we read the world's globalised space the traumatic burden of history and the mutual relationship between language and eschatological belief fifteen original essays by a group of internationally established and emerging critics reflect on the apocalypse its past tradition pervasive present and future legacy The collection seeks to offer a new reading of the apocalypse understood as a complex and frequently paradoxical paradigm of contemporary Western culture The majority of published collections on the subject have been published prior to the year 2000 and in their majority of cases locate the apocalypse in the future and envision it as something imminent This collection offers a post millennial perspective that perceives the end as immanent and simultaneously rooted in the past tradition

Boom Cities Otto Saumarez Smith, 2019-03-21 Boom Cities is the first published history of the profound transformations of British city centres in the 1960s It has often been said that urban planners did more damage to Britain's cities than even the Luftwaffe had managed and this study details the rise and fall of modernist urban planning revealing its origins and the dissolution of the cross party consensus before the ideological smearing that has ever since characterized the high rise towers dizzying ring roads and concrete precincts that were left behind The rebuilding of British city centres during the 1960s drastically affected the built form of urban Britain including places ranging from traditional cathedral cities through to the decaying towns of the industrial revolution Boom Cities uncovers both the planning philosophy and the political cultural and legislative background that created the conditions for these processes to occur across the country Boom Cities reveals the role of architect planners in these transformations The volume also provides an unconventional account of the end of modernist approaches to the built environment showing it from the perspective of planning and policy elites rather than through the emergence of public opposition to planning
