

The background of the cover is a painting. In the foreground, a man wearing a straw hat and blue overalls over a light-colored shirt is seen from behind, walking away from the viewer. He is carrying a long wooden pole across his shoulders. He is walking through a vast, green field with rows of crops. In the background, there is a large industrial facility with several tall smokestacks emitting thick, dark smoke. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall mood is one of contrast between nature and industry.

Rogers, 1988 Research in Social Problems and Public Policy William R. Freudenburg, 1993-12 Even today many people think of social problems as involving poor and powerless individuals in society Research in Social Problems and Public Policy seeks to improve the balance by adding a focus on important and powerful institutions Such organizations often play key roles in managing and mismanaging the ways in which some of today's most important social problems are handled by the public policy system The papers discuss policy sciences public policy analysis and public management addressing operations and design issues for government organizations Community And The Northwestern Logger Matthew S. Carroll, 2019-04-09 It has often been said that natural resource and environmental problems cannot be solved without solving human problems In this book Matthew Carroll examines the economic and social circumstances of northwestern U S loggers in the face of shifts in environmental politics dramatic reductions in timber harvest levels on federal lands and changing technology and market forces among other factors that are rapidly transforming their industry their livelihoods and their communities Drawing upon sociological fieldwork in logging communities that he conducted at various times over a period of nearly a decade and using the spotted owl old growth controversy as a case study Carroll provides a rich and detailed picture of life among northwestern loggers He lays out the human dimensions and dilemmas of the timber crisis Expanding it from the oversimplified owl versus logger confrontation he puts these issues in a historical and policy context and suggests parallels to other controversies such as public grazing and federal or state river protection Carroll's work revives the concept of occupational community and shows ways it can be used to understand the dynamics of rural occupations linked to resource extraction
