

Some chapters do grapple with wider issues. Ross Robinson ("Regional Ports: Development and Change since the 1970s") explains how containerization has helped to redefine the port hierarchy by accelerating primacy both within individual countries and, through the role of Singapore, within Southeast Asia as a whole. Christopher Kissling ("ASEAN Air Transport") hints at something similar with two fascinating maps of intra-ASEAN flight frequencies and international flight frequencies of ASEAN airlines yet fails to analyze the phenomenon. None of this surfaces in the final chapter, which remains committed to a country approach. There is no recognition that the integration of transport systems across Southeast Asia makes a comparative analysis of transport systems by country a fairly illogical exercise. The book does, however, provide an obvious explanation of why the various countries of Southeast Asia have pursued rather similar transport policies (p. 6). The other chapter that focuses on development is that of Andrew Spencer ("Urban Transport"). In addition to addressing issues in urban transport it outlines the impact of transport improvements upon urban land use and mobility and also explores the equity implications of alternative transport strategies within the formal/informal sector paradigm.

From the perspective of development, the book is a disappointment. Far from integrating transport with development, it perpetuates the attitude that transport can be studied in isolation by industry specialists. Its approach of "progress, problems and policies" constrains it to an industry view. Nevertheless, for anyone seeking an overview of what is happening in Southeast Asian transport, this book can be recommended as a useful guide for some years to come.

Rapid Rural Appraisal in Northeast Thailand: Case Studies. Edited by GEORGE W. LOVELACE, SUKAESINEE SUBHADHIRA, and SUCHINT SIMARAKS. Khon Kaen: Khon Kaen University, 1988. 164 pp.

These two volumes represent a synthesis of the learning process that has accompanied the emergence of Rapid Rural Appraisal (RRA) as a new and potentially valuable tool for rural development practitioners in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Although not produced as a companion set, these two books summarize the level of critical thinking and variety of applications to which these new tools can be applied. These two volumes contain material of importance for almost everyone in the development field; they should be sufficient to convince both practitioners and the most skeptical of academic critics of the creditability of RRA.

As these books highlight, RRA is fundamentally a process of learning about rural conditions in an intensive, iterative, and cost-effective manner. It is typically associated with small multidisciplinary teams; a variety of methods that stress "triangulation" of research questions; and repetitive investigations which reduce errors in understanding by continually cross-checking and refining acquired knowledge. RRA methods also emphasize valuing indigenous knowledge as a way of closing the information gap between development professionals and rural inhabitants.
