By SAUL D. ALINSKY

This book trumpets the call to action to every American as we face the great democratic crisis of today. The heart of this crisis is the people—the very substance of democracy. There the die will be cast: democracy or dictatorship.

This is the story of People's Organizations, ever-growing in number and irrevocably committed to the rallying cry of democracy: "We the people will work out our own destiny." Already more than a quarter of a million strong, with countless others joining in, they are on the march toward a common goal—full democracy for the common man. This is their story, and the story of "ORDERLY REVOLUTION—A MICROCOSM OF THE ORDERLY REVOLUTION SLOWLY BUT STEADILY GETTING UNDER WAY THROUGHOUT OUR WHOLE COUNTRY."—(Agnes E. Meyer, Washington Post) This book is the manual for that revolution, a compass clearly pointing out the only way we can secure real democracy. It is the way of working directly with the people—not for them or over them, but with them.

In Chicago's Back of the Yards
... and the other "Across the Tracks" communities democracy has been literally reborn. There the people, working through their own organizations, are aggressively solving their common problems from juvenile delinquency to adult strikebreaking, from dirty alleys to dirty race relations, from housing to health to economic security. And through this militant process these people have come to recognize their own worth and that of their neighbors, and to know with complete finality that the worth of individual human beings can be understood and respected only in a democracy.

Here is the blow-by-blow story of this hard, dirty, tough, heart-breaking battle to make democracy work, of which the New York Herald Tribune editorially has said:

"IT MAY WELL MEAN THE SALVATION OF OUR WAYOF LIFE."

This book, written from the first-hand personal experiences of the author and his associates, tells, by specific examples, how People's Organizations are built from the cold bedrock of apathy and disinterest to fiery power in the hands of the people; how these People's Organiza-

Jamison, Ron Eyerman, 1995-10-11 The Sixties The powerful images conveyed by those two words have become an enduring part of American cultural and political history But where did Sixties radicalism come from Who planted the intellectual seeds that brought it into being These questions are answered with striking clarity in Andrew Jamison and Ron Eyerman's book The result is a combination of history and biography that vividly portrays an entire culture in transition The authors focus on specific individuals each of whom in his or her distinctive way carried the ideas of the 1930s into the decades after World War II and each of whom shared in inventing a new kind of intellectual partisanship They begin with C Wright Mills Hannah Arendt and Erich Fromm and show how their work linked the old left of the Thirties to the new left of the Sixties Lewis Mumford Rachel Carson and Fairfield Osborn laid the groundwork for environmental activism Herbert Marcuse Margaret Mead and Leo Szilard articulated opposition to the postwar scientific technological state Alternatives to mass culture were proposed by Allen Ginsberg James Baldwin and Mary McCarthy and Saul Alinsky Dorothy Day and Martin Luther King Jr made politics personal This is an unusual book written with an intimacy that brings to life both intellect and emotion The portraits featured here clearly demonstrate that the transforming radicalism of the Sixties grew from the legacy of an earlier generation of thinkers With a deep awareness of the historical trends in American culture the authors show us the continuing relevance these partisan intellectuals have for our own age In a time colored by political correctness and the ascendancy of market liberalism it is well to remember the partisan intellectuals of the 1950s They took sides and dissented without becoming dogmatic May we be able to say the same about ourselves from Chapter 7
