

SEPARATIST SHIPS

Whether you envision dozens of Separatist warships in the Outer Rim, a few dozen battleships lead dozens of destroyers and frigates in a bold strike on the galactic capital Coruscant. These light warships, bristling with small laser cannons and impressive, oversized cannons, were pledged to Grand Banks by the governments of hundreds of aggressively independent star sectors. As the war is legally controlled by assumed droid brain technology, little crew space is required. This gives the ships a unique, skeletal appearance. Destroyers and frigates are not equipped with hangars or general attack armors but carry enough security droids for boarding actions. They can also act as "tugs" for Separatist warfighters, providing protection inside their spacious hull corridors. If the vessels' deflector shields fail, however, their hulls are vulnerable targets for Republic defenders.

These vessels feature the same hull and armor technology as the Republic's light warships.

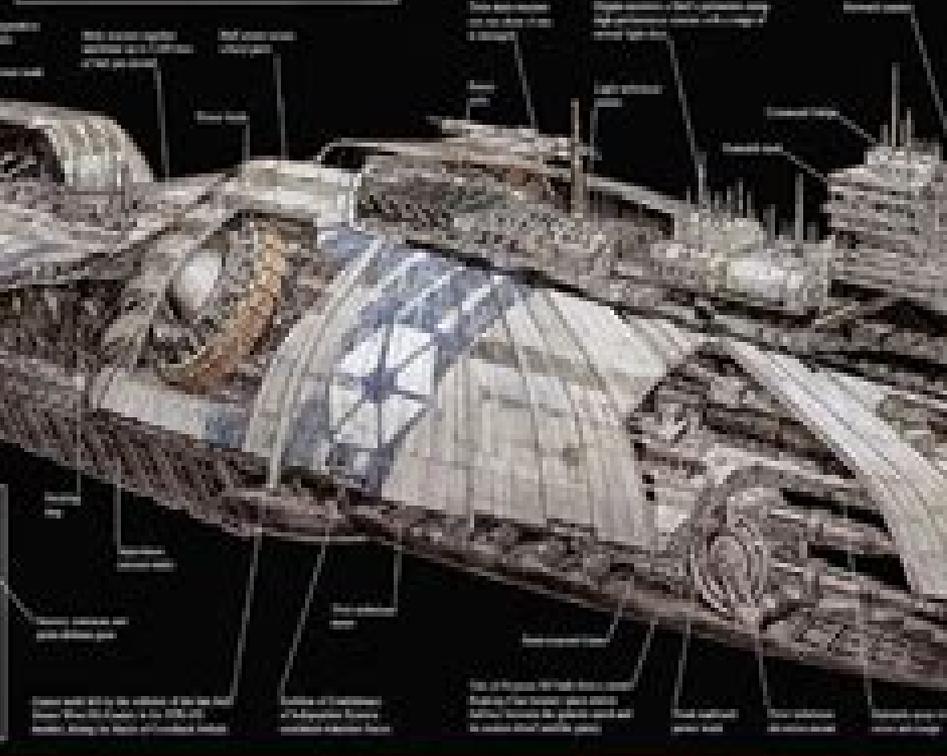

Two attack cannons mounted on the hull.

Common Core Destroyer Destroyers
 These vessels are light warships that were produced by various factories led by SoroSuub Corporation, which operated from many Core Worlds (old worlds). From the beginning of the Clone Wars, countless numbers of these vessels were built, destroyed in battle, and replaced. Some Republic ships were also used and modified in Republic-controlled shipping, but their real effectiveness became apparent when deployed in large numbers. They're not the ships a Republic Destroyer class is known as the Destroyer, but a small-scale 1,200-foot-long ship is built in the Outer Rim Territories of the Outer Rim.

The large turbolaser cannons are built with an armor plating 1,000 droids (100 meters in diameter) in place for the width of a 100-meter (330 feet) wide (100 meters) in length.
