Of Rocks and Water Ömür Harmanşah, 2014-07-11 People are drawn to places where geology performs its miracles ice cold spring waters gushing from the rock mysterious caves which act as conduits for ancestors and divinities traveling back and forth to the underworld sacred bodies of water where communities make libations and offer sacrifices This volume presents a series of archaeological landscapes from the Iranian highlands to the Anatolian Plateau and from the Mediterranean borderlands to Mesoamerica Contributors all have a deep interest in the making and the long term history of unorthodox places of human interaction with the mineral world specifically the landscapes of rocks and water Working with rock reliefs sacred springs and lakes caves cairns ruins and other meaningful places they draw attention to the need for a rigorous field methodology and theoretical framework for working with such special places At a time when network models urban centered and macro scale perspectives dominate discussions of ancient landscapes this unusual volume takes us to remote unmappable places of cultural practice social imagination and political appropriation It offers not only a diverse set of case studies approaching small meaningful places in their special geological grounding but also suggests new methodologies and interpretive approaches to understand places and the processes of place making

The Triumph of the Symbol Tallay Ornan, 2005 This book analyzes the history of Mesopotamian imagery from the mid second to mid first millennium BCE It demonstrates that in spite of rich textual evidence which grants the Mesopotamian gods and goddesses an anthropomorphic form there was a clear abstention in various media from visualizing the gods in such a form True divine human shaped cultic images existed in Mesopotamian temples But as a rule non anthropomorphic visual agents such as inanimate objects animals or fantastic hybrids replaced these figures when they were portrayed outside of their sacred enclosures This tendency reached its peak in first millennium Babylonia and Assyria The removal of the Mesopotamian human shaped deity from pictorial renderings resembles the Biblical agenda not only in its avoidance of displaying a divine image but also in the implied dual perception of the divine according to the Bible and the Assyro Babylonian concept the divine was conceived as having a human form yet in both cases anthropomorphism was also concealed or rejected though to a different degree In the present book this dual approach toward the divine image is considered as a reflection of two associated rather than contradictory religious worldviews The plausible consolidation of the relevant Biblical accounts just before the Babylonian Exile or more probably within the Exile in both cases during a period of strong Assyrian and Babylonian hegemony points to a direct correspondence between comparable religious phenomena It is suggested that far from their homeland and in the absence of a temple for their god the Judahite deportees adopted and intensified the Mesopotamian avoidance of anthropomorphic pictorial portrayals of deities While the Babylonian representations remained confined to temples the exiles would have turned a cultic reality i e the nonwritten Babylonian custom into a written articulated law that explicitly forbade the pictorial representation of God

Communities of Style Marian H. Feldman, 2014-10-30 Communities of Style examines the production and circulation of portable luxury goods throughout the Levant in the early Iron Age 1200 600 BCE In particular it focuses on how societies in flux came together around the material effects of art and style and their role in collective memory Marian H Feldman brings her dual training as an art historian and an archaeologist to bear on the networks that were essential to the movement and trade of luxury goods particularly ivories and metal works and how they were also central to community formation The interest in and relationships to these art objects Feldman shows led to wide ranging interactions and transformations both within and between communities Ultimately she argues the production and movement of luxury goods in the period demands a rethinking of our very geo cultural conception of the Levant as well as its influence beyond what have traditionally been thought of as its borders
