published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Scientific and Technical Advice for the U.S. Congress United States. Congress. House. Committee on Science, 2006 Arguments that Count Rebecca Slayton, 2023-10-31 How differing assessments of risk by physicists and computer scientists have influenced public debate over nuclear defense In a rapidly changing world we rely upon experts to assess the promise and risks of new technology But how do these experts make sense of a highly uncertain future In Arguments that Count Rebecca Slayton offers an important new perspective Drawing on new historical documents and interviews as well as perspectives in science and technology studies she provides an original account of how scientists came to terms with the unprecedented threat of nuclear armed intercontinental ballistic missiles ICBMs She compares how two different professional communities physicists and computer scientists constructed arguments about the risks of missile defense and how these arguments changed over time Slayton shows that our understanding of technological risks is shaped by disciplinary repertoires the codified knowledge and mathematical rules that experts use to frame new challenges And significantly a new repertoire can bring long neglected risks into clear view In the 1950s scientists recognized that high speed computers would be needed to cope with the unprecedented speed of ICBMs But the nation s elite science advisors had no way to analyze the risks of computers so used physics to assess what they could radar and missile performance Only decades later after establishing computing as a science were advisors able to analyze authoritatively the risks associated with complex software most notably the risk of a catastrophic failure As we continue to confront new threats including that of cyber attack Slayton offers valuable insight into how different kinds of expertise can limit or expand our capacity to address novel technological risks SDI ,1988 Science and Technology Report and Outlook, 1985-1988 United States. Office of Science and Technology Policy, 1989 National Defense and Security United States. Superintendent of Documents, 1990 Ballistic Missile Defense J. Klein Spencer, 1997-02 Since 1985 the Ballistic Missile Defense Org BMDO has been developing technologies for directed energy weapons lasers and particle beams This report is an evaluation of DoD s recommendations for transferring or retaining management responsibility for directed energy technologies in the BMDO It also determines the future direction of directed energy development Provides info on directed energy weapon funding to date the status of the technologies and the additional funding that would be needed for further development of the technologies Alternative Security Burns H Weston, 2019-06-03 Alternative Security offers the thinking person a place to begin to kick the nuclear habit Even as it accepts the premise that war is endemic to the human condition it provides reassurance that an other than nuclear deterrence policy can work to effectively safeguard national and transnational interests These eight original essays acco Monthly Catalog of United States Government

Bromberg, 1999-05-04 A timely exploration of the relationships between NASA and the private sector An interesting read Spaceflight Few federal agencies have more extensive ties to the private sector than NASA NASA s relationships with its many aerospace industry suppliers of rocket engines computers electronics gauges valves O rings and other materials have often been described as partnerships These have produced a few memorable catastrophes but mostly technical achievements of the highest order Until now no one has written extensively about them In NASA and the Space Industry Joan Lisa Bromberg explores how NASA s relationship with the private sector developed and how it works She outlines the various kinds of expertise public and private sectors brought to the tasks NASA took on describing how this division of labor changed over time She explains why NASA sometimes encouraged and sometimes thwarted the privatization of space projects and describes the agency s role in the rise of such new space industries as launch vehicles and communications satellites

Superpowers in Economic Decline Richard Cohen, Peter A. Wilson, 2021-05-30 This book first published in 1990 evaluates what future policy adjustments the US will have to make in order to successfully navigate through a national security environment radically altered from that of the past and one determined more than at any point in the post war period by the economic performance of both superpowers The structure of the book centres around two issues that will determine the future national security environment facing the US Discussed are stakes of the threat the response of the Soviet Union to the challenge of economic and related social political decline and its implications for the Soviet national defence effort Also studied are the resources available to the US to meet the threat the status of the US economic performance and the magnitude of resource stress it is likely to face in the future and its probable impact on the US national defence effort Special Panel on the Strategic Defense Initiative United States. Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services. Special Panel on the Strategic Defense Initiative, 1989 Assessing the Threat of Weapons of Mass Destruction John L. Finney, Ivo Šlaus, 2010 This is a collection of papers delivered at the NATO Advanced Research Workshop of the same name which examined the role of independent scientists in assessing WMD threat Such threat assessment has a profound impact on the policies of governments and international organizations With papers covering topics ranging from policy making to chemical and biological weapons nuclear threats and breaking the threat or counter threat cycle this book illuminates an area of vital importance to the security and stability of relations between states and the maintenance of internationally agreed norms SDI (Strategic Defense Initiative) Technology, Survivability and Software Office of technology assessment Washington DC, 1988 This report reviews the status of the various SDI technologies and system components It analyzes the feasibility of producing dependable software of the complexity that advanced BMD systems would require Finally it summarizes what is now known and unknown about the probable survivability of such systems against concerted enemy attacks of various kinds
