What People Believe When They Say That People Believe Todd Jones, 2010-10-26 In modern life we often hear people say things like Catholics don't believe in using birth control There are many reasons that we want to know what groups of people such as Catholics are thinking and doing But it's hard to understand which social situations are being described by such statements It's also difficult to understand what speakers believe when they make such statements even when the speakers are social scientists In this work cognitive scientist and philosopher Todd Jones looks at the different things that social scientists and ordinary speakers mean when they make statements ascribing beliefs or actions to groups rather than individuals Such statements are often denigrated as mere stereotypes or generalizations Yet they are also used by people to strategize about what actions to take and even for social scientific explanations In this work Jones takes a detailed look at the different things these kinds of statements about groups can mean and the various social structures they correspond to He also looks at how such statements can and can't be used to successfully explain the behavior of individuals or groups While many people broadly dismiss such statements about groups Jones gives a careful discussion of the problems and possibilities such statements have

Finding a Replacement for the Soul Brett Bourbon, 2009-06-30 Approaching the study of literature as a unique form of the philosophy of language and mind as a study of how we produce nonsense and imagine it as sense this is a book about our human ways of making and losing meaning Brett Bourbon asserts that our complex and variable relation with language defines a domain of meaning and being that is misconstrued and missed in philosophy in literary studies and in our ordinary understanding of what we are and how things make sense Accordingly his book seeks to demonstrate how the study of literature gives us the means to understand this relationship The book itself is framed by the literary and philosophical challenges presented by Joyce s Finnegan s Wake and Wittgenstein s Philosophical Investigations With reference to these books and the problems of interpretation and meaning that they pose Bourbon makes a case for the fundamental philosophical character of the study of literature and for its dependence on theories of meaning disguised as theories of mind Within this context he provides original accounts of what sentences fictions non fictions and poems are produces a new account of the logical form of fiction and of the limits of interpretation that follow from it and delineates a new and fruitful domain of inquiry in which literature philosophy and science intersect Table of Contents Preface Note on Abbreviations Introduction What Are We When We Are Not Part I The Surface of Language and the Absence of Meaning 1 From Soul Making to Person Making 2 The Logical Form of Fiction 3 The Emptiness of Literary Interpretation 4 To Be But Not To Mean 5 How Do Oracles Mean Part II Senses and Nonsenses Joyce s Finnegans Wake and Wittgenstein s Philosophical Investigations 6 A Twitterlitter of Nonsense Askesis at Finnegans Wake 7 The Analogy between Persons and Words 8 The Human Body Is the Best Picture of the Human Soul 9 The Senses of Time 10 Being Something and Meaning Something Bibliography Acknowledgments Index This is an adventurous and unusual book Bourbon moves back and forth between literary and philosophical contexts with ease showing in multifarious ways how the one can often in unexpected ways illuminate the other Throughout these wide ranging explorations Bourbon uncovers a good deal about both the nature of literary meaning and our distinctive if tellingly irreducible relations to literary texts Garry L Hagberg author of Art as Language Wittgenstein Meaning and Aesthetic Theory and Meaning and Interpretation Wittgenstein Henry James and Literary Knowledge The Wiley Handbook of Adult Literacy Dolores Perin, 2019-10-15 Examines the widespread phenomenon of poor literacy skills in adults across the globe This handbook presents a wide range of research on adults who have low literacy skills It looks at the cognitive affective and motivational factors underlying adult literacy adult literacy in different countries and the educational approaches being taken to help improve adults literacy skills It includes not only adults enrolled in adult literacy programs but postsecondary students with low literacy skills some of whom have reading disabilities The first section of The Wiley Handbook of Adult Literacy covers issues such as phonological abilities in adults who have not yet learned to read gender differences in the reading motivation of adults with low literacy skills literacy skills academic self efficacy and participation in prison education and more Chapters on adult literacy social change and sociocultural factors in South Asia and in Ghana literacy numeracy and self rated health among U S adults adult literacy programs in Southeastern Europe and Turkey and a review of family and workplace literacy programs are among the topics featured in the second section The last part examines how to teach reading and writing to adults with low skills adults transition from secondary to postsecondary education implications for policy research and practice in the adult education field educational technologies that support reading comprehension and more Looks at the cognitive processing challenges associated with low literacy in adults Features contributions from a global team of experts in the field Offers writing strategy instruction for low skilled postsecondary students The Wiley Handbook of Adult Literacy is an excellent book for academic researchers teacher educators professional developers program designers and graduate students It s also beneficial to curriculum developers adult basic education and developmental education instructors and program administrators as well as clinicians and counselors who provide services to adults with reading disabilities
