Searching For Health:

Web Search: Public Searching of the Web Amanda Spink, Bernard J. Jansen, 2006-02-21 This book brings together results from the Web search studies we conducted from 1997 through 2004. The aim of our studies has been twofold: to examine how the public at large searches the Web and to highlight trends in public Web searching. The eight year period from 1997 to 2004 saw the beginnings and maturity of public Web searching. Commercial Web search engines have come and gone or endured through the fall of the dot com companies. We saw the rise and in some cases the demise of several high profile publicly available Web search engines. The study of the Web search is an exciting and important area of interdisciplinary research. Our book provides a valuable insight into the growth and development of human interaction with Web search engines. In this book, our focus is on the human aspect of the interaction between user and Web search engine. We do not investigate the Web search engines themselves or their constantly changing interfaces, algorithms and features. We focus on exploring the cognitive and user aspects of public Web searching in the aggregate. We use a variety of quantitative and qualitative methods within the overall methodology known as transaction log analysis. Searching Skills Toolkit Caroline

De Brún, Nicola Pearce-Smith, 2011-09-23 The distinguishing feature of this pocket sized searching skills book like all the Toolkit series titles is its user friendliness. The guiding principle is that readers do not want to become librarians but they are faced with practical difficulties when searching for evidence such as lack of skills, lack of time and information overload. They need to learn simple search skills and be directed towards the right resources to find the best evidence to support their decision making. A user friendly Hands On guide to literature searching which is an essential skill for all involved in health care research and development researchers and students from all disciplines. What Matters for Health and Happiness

Among the Older Adults in Asia Nai Peng Tey, Halimah Awang, Shekhar Chauhan, 2024-03-11 People want to live a healthy and happy later life. A large body of literature shows the close association between health status and happiness and between health and active engagement in work, exercise and social and religious activities. However, the causation between the two can run both ways and it is difficult to determine the causal effect with cross sectional data. Various authors have shown the significant influence of socioeconomic factors and human needs on older people's health status and happiness. A better understanding of the factors affecting healthy and happy aging is essential for policymaking to improve the well being of older people. The availability of data from HRS family studies in several Asian countries: CHARLS in China, LASI in India, JSTAR in Japan, KLoSA in Korea, IFLS in Indonesia, HART in Thailand, MARS in Malaysia and Longitudinal Study of Ageing and Health in Viet Nam, see Gateway to Global Aging Data, provides an excellent opportunity for researchers to examine factors affecting health and happiness among older adults within and across Asian countries. This research topic aims to gather papers that investigate the socioeconomic, attitudinal and behavioural factors affecting the health status and happiness, life satisfaction of older adults in Asia. The dependent variables may include physical health, mental health, disability, ADL, IADL.

cognitive functioning self rated health health expenditure feeling of happiness and life satisfaction The independent variables may be age gender marital status place of residence educational level active engagement work exercise social and religious activities family and social relationship and support outlook in life smoking drinking and access to and utilization of healthcare services etc Manuscripts can be based on individual countries or cross country analysis preferably using the panel data to establish the causal effects of the independent variables on the dependent variables Social Informatics
