Seed Proteins Peter R. Shewry, R. Casey, 2012-12-06 Seeds provide more than half of the world's intake of dietary protein and energy and thus are of immense economic, cultural and nutritional importance. Proteins can account for up to 40% of the dry weight of various types of seeds, thereby making a large contribution to the nutritional quality and processing properties of seeds. It is therefore not surprising that seed proteins were among the first plant components to be systematically studied some 250 years ago and have been a major focus of research over the past 100 years. The properties and behaviour of seed proteins pervade modern life in numerous ways. For example, legume and cereal proteins are used in the production of a wide range of meat-free foods; the process of bread-making is dependent on the physical-chemical properties of wheat seed proteins and in developed as well as developing countries, nutritional deficiencies among vegetarian diets are avoided through balancing legume and cereal seeds as sources of dietary proteins. Understanding seed proteins in order to improve their composition and properties and to increase their concentrations will thus continue to be an important research objective for the future. The present volume represents the culmination of a long-discussed plan of the editors to bring together the best international authorities in order to compile a definitive monograph on biological, biochemical, molecular and genetic aspects of seed proteins. Principles of Seed Science and Technology Lawrence O. Copeland, Miller F. McDonald, 2012-12-06 This Third Edition of Principles of Seed Science and Technology like the first two editions is written for the advanced undergraduate student or lay person who desires an introduction to the science and technology of seeds. The first eight chapters present the seed as a biological system and cover its origin, development, composition, function and sometimes nonfunction, performance and ultimate deterioration. The last seven chapters present the fundamentals of how seeds are produced, conditioned, evaluated and distributed in our modern agricultural society. A new chapter on seed enhancement has been added to reflect the significant advancements made in the last 10 years on new physiological and molecular biology techniques to further enhance seed performance. Because of the fundamental importance of seeds to both agriculture and to all of society, we have taken great care to present the science and technology of seeds with the respect and feeling this study deserves. We hope that this feeling will be communicated to our readers. Furthermore, we have attempted to present information in a straight-forward, easy-to-read manner that will be easily understood by students and lay persons alike. Special care has been taken to address both current state of the art as well as future trends in seed technology. We believe this Third Edition represents a new level in presenting information that appeals to advanced undergraduate students as well as to those desiring more fundamental information on seed form and function. At the same time, it continues to have the strengths of the first two editions in its readability as well as its comprehensive coverage of the broader area of seed science and technology. Seed Development and Germination Jaime Kigel, 2017-11-01 This text is intended for plant physiologists, molecular biologists, biochemists, biotechnologists, geneticists, horticulturalists, agronomists and botanists and upper level undergraduate and graduate students in these disciplines It integrates advances in the diverse and rapidly expanding field of seed science from ecological and demographic aspects of seed production dispersal and germination to the molecular biology of seed development The book offers a broad multidisciplinary approach that covers both theoretical and applied knowledge Valorization of Fruit Seed Waste from Food Processing Industry Manoj Kumar,Kanika Sharma,Sneh Punia Bangar,2024-06-12 Developments in Food Quality and Safety Series is the most up to date resource covering trend topics such as Advances in the analysis of toxic compounds and control of food poisoning Food fraud traceability and authenticity Revalorization of agrifood industry Natural antimicrobial compounds and application to improve the preservation of food Non thermal processing technologies in the food industry Nanotechnology in food production and Intelligent packaging and sensors for food applications Volume 5 Valorization of fruit seed waste from food processing industry Insights on Nutritional profile biological functions and applications provides comprehensive information regarding different aspects of fruit seed waste which can be of great help to students research scholars professors and food industries for both theoretical and practical work This book covers the composition of different types of fruit seed waste including their biological and functional characteristics applications and extraction valorization methods for the production of value added products which will help to tailor the experiments for the development of advanced valorization technologies with respect to specific characteristics of each type of fruit seed waste The series is edited by Dr Jos Manuel Lorenzo and authored by a team of global experts in the fields of Food Quality and Safety providing comprehensive knowledge to food industry personals and scientists Covers the fundamentals and latest developments in valorization methods for different fruit seed waste Provides a comprehensive view of the recovery of valuable ingredients from fruit seed waste Thoroughly explores extraction methods for obtaining bioactive components characterization methods and phytochemical profile of the seed Handbook of Seed Physiology Roberto Benez-Arnold,Rodolfo S?nchez,2004-09-21 The latest findings in seed physiologydiscussed as they relate to agricultural problems Presenting the latest findings in the area of seed physiology as well as the practical applications of that knowledge in the field the Handbook of Seed Physiology Applications to Agriculture provides a comprehensive view of seed biology and it The Woody Plant Seed Manual United States. Recent advances of research in antinutritional factors in legume seeds and oilseeds M. Muzquiz,G.D. Hill,C. Burbano,C. Cuadrado,M.M. Pedrosa,2023-08-28 This series of meetings bring together experts working in this field of Science from throughout the world A major feature of each conference session is an invited review which outlines the advances that have been made in a particular area since the last meeting A major factor that was considered at this meeting was the likely impact of plant genetic modification on the nutritional quality of their seeds for human and animal feeding As an example already a number of legume species and rapeseed have been modified to improve the sulphur amino acid content of their seed and thus their protein quality Besides the major grain legume species and rapeseed that had been discussed at previous meetings in this series number of crop products as potential protein sources for animal feeding were considered for the first time These included cottonseed meal linseed meal and sunflower seed meal The potential of some new exotic crops from Mexico was also covered including Mexican species of the genus Lupinus and a Mexican plant from the same family as castor bean which has a very high oil content but is usually toxic Work from Cuba compared the nutritional characteristics of soybean with a range of tropical grain legume species which have received little previous attention A major change at this meeting was the greater consideration of the effects both positive and negative of the consumption of these seeds for human nutrition A major review on the development of allergenicity to legume seed in humans is included There was also consideration of the potential role of antinutritional factors in reducing the growth of various types of tumour cells The presented papers also suggest that the consumption of legume seed in the diet can potentially reduce serum cholesterol levels Overall from the 5 conference sessions there are 52 papers Of these 7 are major invited reviews on the current state of research in this important area for human and animal feeding
