CMHS,2018-07-21 My long time preoccupation with hotel history reveals one continuous strand the achievements of unique entrepreneurs who created singular hotels one at a time These pioneers were not by subsequent definition hotel men They did not attend hotel schools because there were none until 1924 with the creation of the Cornell School of Hotel Administration. Most of them did not grow up in the hotel business but became successful because of their varied on-the-job training experiences, business acumen, and unexpected opportunities. Their tradition-breaking vision and single-minded ambition led them to create iconic hotels. My research has uncovered three such hotel mavericks, two of whom were both essentially in the railroad and steamship business. Two were friendly competitors. Three concentrated their hotel creations in the State of Florida: Henry Morrison Flagler on the east coast and Henry Bradley Plant on the west coast. The third maverick was Carl Graham Fisher, who created Miami Beach and Montauk Long Island, N.Y.

The world and the people living in it are increasingly and rapidly being affected by environmental and technological changes. It is imperative that the design profession addresses these developments with a new way of thinking. This book points the way for the design of interiors in this newly complex world and will be indispensable for students, practitioners, and theoreticians. The book is divided into four chapters that explore aspects of the human experience of the interior from man's earliest search for shelter to an outline of past and current thinking on design psychology and well-being. An epilogue looks at such future concerns as population growth and sustainability and suggests how the design profession can confront these challenges. Rethinking Design and Interiors is a fascinating exploration of how art and science can come together for the benefit of those who inhabit the built environment.
