

The image shows a detailed view of a classical building's facade. On the left, a large, dark stone arch is partially visible. To its right is a rectangular window with dark curtains. The wall between the arch and the window, and the area above the window, are decorated with a repeating diamond-shaped pattern. Above the arch, there is a decorative frieze with a series of small, arched motifs. The overall color palette is warm, with shades of brown and gold.

Van Zanten, W. Jordy, W. de Wit, [and] R.B. Elstein, with a Contribution by R. Twombly Wim de Wit,Chicago Historical Society,1986 The Function of Ornament Farshid Moussavi,2022-02-04 Architecture needs mechanisms that allow it to become connected to culture It achieves this by continually capturing the forces that shape society as material to work with Architecture s materiality is therefore a composite one made up of visible forces structural functional physical as well as invisible forces cultural political temporal Architecture progresses through new concepts that connect with these forces manifesting itself in new aesthetic compositions and affects Ornament is the by product of this process through which architectural material is organized to transmit unique affects This book is a graphic guide to ornaments in the twentieth century It unveils the function of ornament as the agent for specific affects dismantling the idea that ornament is applied to buildings as a discrete or non essential entity Each case operates through greater or lesser depth to exploit specific synergies between the exterior and the interior constructing an internal order between ornament and material These internal orders produce expressions that are contemporary yet whose affects are resilient in time Nature Of Ornament Kent Bloomer,2000-10-31 Yet during the twentieth century ornament was scorned Adolf Loos famously called it crime and its study all but eliminated from art and architecture curricula What happened and must we live with the result Is ornament dead The Orchestration of the Arts — A Creative Symbiosis of Existential Powers M. Kronegger,2013-03-09 Regardless of the subject matter our studies are always searching for a sense of the universal in the specific Drawing etchings and paintings are a way of communicating ideas and emotions The key word here is to communicate Whether the audience sees the work as laborious or poetic depends on the creative genius of the artist Some painters use the play of light passing through a landscape or washing over a figure to create an evocative moment that will be both timeless and transitory The essential role of art remains what is has always been a way of human expression This is the role that our participants concentrate on as they discuss art as the expression of the spirit a creative act through which the artist makes manifest what is within him Spirit suggests the unity of feeling and thought Avoiding broad generalities our participants address specific areas in orchestration with music architecture literature and phenomenology Profs Souiller Scholz Etlin Sweetser Josephs show us at what point art is an intimate profound expression and the magic of a civilization as a whole springing from its evolving thoughts and embodying ideals such as the Renaissance the Baroque Modernism and at what point it reflects the transformation of a particular society and its mode of life A System of Architectural Ornament, 1967

Condello, 2016-03-16 Over the past century luxury has been increasingly celebrated in the sense that it is no longer a privilege or attitude of the European elite or America's leisure class It has become more ubiquitous and now practically everyone can experience luxury even luxury in architecture Focusing on various contexts within Western Europe Latin America and the United States this book traces the myths and application of luxury within architecture interiors and designed landscapes Spanning from antiquity to the modern era it sets out six historical categories of luxury Sybaritic

Lucullan architectural excess rustic neoEuropean and modern and relates these to the built and unbuilt environment taking different cultural contexts and historical periods into consideration It studies some of the ethical questions raised by the nature of luxury in architecture and discusses whether architectural luxury is an unqualified benefit or something which should only be present within strict limits The author argues how the ideas of permissible and impermissible luxury have informed architecture and how these notions of ethical approval have changed from one context to another Providing voluptuous settings for the nobles and the leisure class luxury took the form of not only grand palaces but also follies country and suburban houses private or public entertainment venues and ornate skyscrapers with fast lifts The Architecture of Luxury proposes that in Western societies the growth of the leisure classes and their desire for various settings for pleasure resulted in a constantly increasing level of luxury sought within everyday architecture
