Ben Bradley, 2020-09-11 Darwin has long been hailed as forefather to behavioural science especially nowadays with the growing popularity of evolutionary psychologies Yet until now his contribution to the field of psychology has been somewhat understated This is the first book ever to examine the riches of what Darwin himself wrote about psychological matters It unearths a Darwin new to contemporary science whose first concern is the agency of organisms from which he derives both his psychology and his theory of evolution A deep reading of Darwin s writings on climbing plants and babies blushing and bower birds worms and facial movements shows that for Darwin evolution does not explain everything about human action Group life and culture are also keys whether we discuss the dynamics of conscience or the dramas of desire Thus his treatment of facial actions sets out from the anatomy and physiology of human facial movements and shows how these gain meanings through their recognition by others A discussion of blushing extends his theory to the way reading others expressions rebounds on ourselves I care about how I think you read me This dynamic proves central to how Darwin understands sexual desire the production of conscience and of social standards through group dynamics and the role of culture in human agency Presenting a new Darwin to science and showing how widely Darwin s understanding of evolution and agency has been misunderstood and misrepresented in biology and the social sciences this important new book lights a new way forward for those who want to build psychology on the foundation of evolutionary biology Apollo's Fire Michael Sims, 2008-11-25 It s the oldest story on Earth You relive it every day So much of our shared daily experience in the world is shaped by the sometimes dramatic sometimes subtle effects of the Earth s spin its tilt on its axis the alternation of light and darkness the waxing and waning of the moon the seemingly capricious growth of clouds The ancient rhythm of the day and night was shaping life on Earth before there were even human beings to appreciate it It rules our bodies and weather and calendars and sets the tempo for our work and play Each of us awakens each day to relive this primordial narrative With his signature blend of science and poetry history and mythology Michael Sims serves as tour guide on an unforgettable journey through the wonders of an ordinary day from dawn to nighttime Long before we had the tools of knowledge to explain what we observed in the skies overhead we built mythologies and folklore around these occurrences immortalized them in poetry and art created special places for them in our collective imagination and even our language In Apollo s Fire Sims explores the celestial events that form our days fusing lively explanations of these phenomena with a richly layered history of what they meant to us before we knew how they worked He explains the colors of sunrise the characteristics of shadow the mysteries of twilight Characters in this vital drama include Galileo watching sunrise on the moon Eratosthenes measuring the Earth with a noontime shadow and Edgar Allan Poe figuring out why the night sky is dark instead of glowing with the light of a million suns Our story ranges from the movie High Noon to Darwin s plant experiments from The Time Machine to the afternoon rise in air pollution In the witty and elegant style that has earned him the designation science raconteur Sims weaves a dazzling array of strands into a single tapestry of daily experience and makes the oldest story on Earth new again One Hot
