Demasiado Tarde, ¿Será? Celina G. Migrant Longing Miroslava Chávez-García, 2018-03-22 Drawing upon a personal collection of more than 300 letters exchanged between her parents and other family members across the U S Mexico border Miroslava Ch vez Garc a recreates and gives meaning to the hope fear and longing migrants experienced in their everyday lives both here and there aqui y alla As private sources of communication hidden from public consumption and historical research the letters provide a rare glimpse into the deeply emotional personal and social lives of ordinary Mexican men and women as recorded in their immediate firsthand accounts Ch vez Garc a demonstrates not only how migrants struggled to maintain their sense of humanity in el norte but also how those remaining at home made sense of their changing identities in response to the loss of loved ones who sometimes left for weeks months or years at a time or simply never returned With this richly detailed account ranging from the Mexican Revolution of the 1910s to the emergence of Silicon Valley in the late 1960s Ch vez Garc a opens a new window onto the social economic political and cultural developments of the day and recovers the human agency of much maligned migrants in our society today

Mexican Women and the Other Side of Immigration Luz María Gordillo, 2010-05-01 Weaving narratives with gendered analysis and historiography of Mexicans in the Midwest Mexican Women and the Other Side of Immigration examines the unique transnational community created between San Ignacio Cerro Gordo Jalisco and Detroit Michigan in the last three decades of the twentieth century asserting that both the community of origin and the receiving community are integral to an immigrant s everyday life though the manifestations of this are rife with contradictions Exploring the challenges faced by this population since the inception of the Bracero Program in 1942 in constantly re creating adapting accommodating shaping and creating new meanings of their environments Luz Mar a Gordillo emphasizes the gender specific aspects of these situations While other studies of Mexican transnational identity focus on social institutions Gordillo s work introduces the concept of transnational sexualities particularly the social construction of working class sexuality Her findings indicate that many female San Ignacians shattered stereotypes transgressing traditionally male roles while their husbands lived abroad When the women themselves immigrated as well these transgressions facilitated their adaptation in Detroit Placed within the larger context of globalization Mexican Women and the Other Side of Immigration is a timely excavation of oral histories archival documents and the remnants of three decades of memory SAMIRA Ryna Soto de García,2025-08-14 No information at the moment
