The king's mirror, by Anthony Hope Anthony Hope, 1899 God Forsaken Frederic Breton, 1895 Infinite Hope Anthony Graves, 2018-01-16 Written by a wrongfully convicted man who spent 16 years in solitary confinement and 12 years on death row a powerful memoir about fighting for and winning exoneration In the summer of 1992 a grandmother a teenage girl and four children under the age of ten were beaten and stabbed to death in Somerville Texas The perpetrator set the house on fire to cover his tracks deepening the heinousness of the crime and rocking the tiny community to its core Authorities were eager to make an arrest Five days later Anthony Graves was in custody Graves then twenty six years old and without an attorney was certain that his innocence was obvious He did not know the victims he had no knowledge about the crime and he had an airtight alibi with witnesses There was also no physical evidence linking him to the scene Yet Graves was indicted convicted of capital murder sentenced to death and over the course of twelve years on death row given two execution dates He was not freed for eighteen years two months four days Through years of suffering the whims of rogue prosecutors vote hungry district attorneys and Texas State Rangers who played by their own rules Graves was frequently exposed to the dire realities of being poor and black in the criminal justice system He witnessed fellow inmates who became his friends and confidants be taken away one by one to their deaths And he missed out on seeing his three young sons mature into men Graves's only solace was his infinite hope that the state would not execute him for a crime he did not commit To maintain his dignity and sanity Graves made sure as many people as possible knew about his case He wrote letters to whomever he thought would listen Pen pals in countries all over the world became allies and he attracted the attention of a savvy legal team that overcame setback after setback chiseling away at the state's faulty case against him Everyone's efforts eventually worked After Graves's exoneration the original prosecutor on his case was disbarred Graves is one of a growing number of innocent people exonerated from death row The moving account of his saga of his ultimate fight for freedom from inside a prison cell is as haunting as it is poignant and as shameful to the legal system as it is inspiring to those on the losing end of it

Passionate Hope Doreen Scott, 2014 This story is a sequel to my first book The Door to Happiness under the name of Rowena Ewart but this story based on a true story easily stands alone Two people more than a decade apart in age suffer sadness and pain as young children They strive passionately to live up to the goals they have set themselves Nothing and no one will be allowed to make them stray from their ambitions They both have a defined route to achieve their goals but life as often happens prevents the straight line they desire Fate seems to throw them together with the resulting clashes in personality Aaron is a Consultant Surgeon and Jessie having worked very hard to achieve the necessary qualifications to go to Medical School to train to be a Doctor a promise she made as a little girl to God and herself She is prevented from being offered a place at a University by the number of men being discharged from the War She is clever feisty and fiery with a good sense of humour which sometimes gets her into trouble but she is vulnerable with even the most innocent contact with men other than her family Aaron is twelve years her senior arrogant self opinionated and sometimes downright rude The chemistry between them is almost tangible Aaron's history catches up with him involving Jessie in fear terror and injury There are some humorous incidences amidst a cast of many people they meet along the way until Peace is declared between them
