The importance of vision and visual arts such as painting theatre and sculpture in Marcel Proust's A la recherche du temps perdu has long been affirmed another significant system of visual representation in the novel is photography Proust appropriated photography as a practice with its own distinctive characteristics which could inform his writing about the processes of perception and memory Through close textual analysis of scenes where photography is experienced or observed as a practice and scenes where photography is written into the body of the text Aine Larkin offers an invigorating new study that sheds genuinely new light on the presence of photographic motifs in Proust's novel and the subtlety of Proust's engagement with this modern imaging system in his work      Exercises of a recumbent vacation, 1860-61: with a few of earlier date [by] J.T. [a monogram. Verse]. J. T. James B. TOMALIN, 1861      The Correspondence of John Lothrop Motley Motley, 1889      The correspondence of John Lothrop Motley, ed. by G.W.

The Subject of Desire Deborah Lesko Baker,1996 The French Renaissance poet Louise Labe is one of the most striking and influential women writers of early modern Europe In her broad ranging volume of prose and poetic works 1555 Labe transforms the position of woman in Renaissance discourse from an object to a subject of erotic and artistic desire and privileges the notion of desire itself as a central issue for literary and psychic exploration Deborah Lesko Baker presents the dramatic creation and evolution of female subjectivity in Labe as a passionate quest for internal selfhood made possible through both authentic self expression and interaction with others In so doing she analyzes how the development of the female subject coincides with an ongoing interrogation of the inherited models of the Petrarchan lyric tradition      Pitman's Journal of Commercial Education ,1903
