Book and Periodical Branch, 1967 New Michaelis illustrated dictionary, 1962 NOVO Michaelis, dicionário ilustrado, 1973 Volume 2 Portuguese English Before Middle Passage: Translated Portuguese Manuscripts of Atlantic Slave Trading from West Africa to Iberian Territories, 1513-26 Trevor P. Hall, 2016-03-09 On the 20th of January 1526 the Santiago left Lisbon bound for Africa with a cargo of brass and tin bracelets round bells barber basins and cloth by early October the ship was back in Portugal with a very different cargo 108 enslaved Africans With chilling detachment the ship's trading log records the commodification of human beings the prices paid for them the sums received for their sale and the number who did not survive the crossing Whilst this log may be extremely rare it is clear from another surviving document the receipt book of the customs office of the Portuguese Cape Verde Islands that such voyages were commonplace in the early years of the sixteenth century The bulk of this volume consists of a translation into English of the receipt book from the customs office of the Cape Verde Islands In it Portuguese customs agents recorded import duties on over 3 000 slaves transported from nearby West Africa in 36 ships The customs officers named the slave traders ships officers crew and outfitters of the ships as well as the price of each slave and the import duty collected by the Portuguese government and the Catholic Church A second section of the customs book provides details of export taxes paid on c 600 African slaves by merchants from Portugal Spain and the Spanish Canary Islands when they exchanged European merchandise for slaves The final chapter of the volume translates the Santiago's log providing an example of an actual slave trading expedition Taken together these documents open a rare window into the workings and scope of the early Atlantic slave trade The Concept of Race and Psychotherapy Jefferson M. Fish, 2010-11-05 Is our society color blind Trans racial Post racial And what if anything should this mean to professionals in clinical practice with diverse clients The ambitious volume The Concept of Race and Psychotherapy probes these questions compelling readers to look differently at their clients and themselves and offering a practical framework for more effective therapy By tracing the racial folk taxonomies of eight cultures in the Americas and the Caribbean the author elegantly defines race as a fluid construct dependent on local social political and historical context for meaning but meaningless in the face of science This innovative perspective informs the rest of the book which addresses commonly held assumptions about problem behavior and the desire to change and presents a social science based therapy model applicable to a wide range of current approaches that emphasizes both cultural patterns and client uniqueness Among the highlights of the coverage Common elements in therapy and healing across cultures The psychological appeal of racial concepts despite scientific evidence to the contrary Lessons psychology can learn from anthropology Three types of therapeutic relationships with strategies for working effectively in each The phenomenon of discontinuous change in brief therapy Solution focused therapy from a cross cultural perspective Thought provoking reading for psychologists psychiatrists clinical social workers and other mental health professionals as well as graduate students in these fields The Concept of Race and Psychotherapy affirms the individuality and the interconnectedness of every client
