The Greeks and the New Armand D'Angour, 2011-09-15 The Greeks have long been regarded as innovators across a wide range of fields in literature culture philosophy politics and science However little attention has been paid to how they thought and felt about novelty and innovation itself and to relating this to the forces of traditionalism and conservatism which were also present across all the various societies within ancient Greece What inspired the Greeks to embark on their unique and enduring innovations How did they think and feel about the new This book represents the first serious attempt to address these issues and deals with the phenomenon across all periods and areas of classical Greek history and thought Each chapter concentrates on a different area of culture or thought while the book as a whole argues that much of the impulse towards innovation came from the life of the polis which provided its setting *A Report of the Speeches of the Rev. M. Wozniak, 2021-02-02 One objective all Christians hold in common is to grow in maturity and faithfulness Achieving that goal however is a constant and difficult challenge Ethicist Kenneth W M Wozniak shows how the author of the epistle to the Hebrews argued that the mature Christian life is a disciplined one lived consistently in the moral realm of human experience Although the authority for such living traditionally has been the picture of Jesus as found in the Gospels that picture is only a partial and incomplete one It does not include Hebrews essential depiction of the current living Jesus both exalted Son and High Priest who is the focus of worship and whom Christians claim to follow Wozniak argues that only the often ignored Jesus of Hebrews when coupled with the Jesus pictured in the Gospels is the complete Jesus Christians must obey emulate and implant within themselves if they are to live as mature followers of Jesus it is to this Jesus that they must respond if they are to live faithfully as those who claim Jesus is Lord
