Since the early 1970s the international community has relied on IAEA safeguards to independently verify that non nuclear weapon states are complying with their obligations under the Treaty on the Non proliferation of Nuclear Weapons NPT not to manufacture or otherwise acquire nuclear weapons or other nuclear explosive devices Under the NPT states with comprehensive safeguards agreements must declare all nuclear material to the Agency IAEA then regularly inspects all facilities or locations containing declared material to verify its peaceful uses The discovery that Iraq had developed a clandestine nuclear weapons program while IAEA was inspecting Iraq s civilian nuclear facilities caused the Agency and its member states to initiate an intensive effort to strengthen further the safeguards system This report 1 describes the changes IAEA is undertaking to strengthen its safeguards program 2 assesses the reasonableness of IAEA s assumptions regarding the impact of these changes on program costs and efficiency and 3 comments on the extent of IAEA s reliance on the United States to finance the Agency s safeguards activities

Nuclear safeguards and the International Atomic Energy Agency : report. ,1995 From the dawn of the nuclear age nuclear power has been recognized as a dual use technology The same nuclear reactions that give bombs the destructive force of many thousands of tons of high explosive can when harnessed in a controlled fashion produce energy for peaceful purposes The challenge for the international nuclear nonproliferation regime the collection of policies treaties and institutions intended to stem the spread of nuclear weapons is to prevent nuclear proliferation while at the same time permitting nuclear energy s peaceful applications to be realized One of the key institutions involved in meeting these two objectives is the International Atomic Energy Agency IAEA an international organization created in 1957 as a direct outgrowth of president Eisenhower s Atoms for Peace program The IAEA Statute which creates the legal framework for the agency charges it to accelerate and enlarge the contribution of atomic energy to peace health and prosperity throughout the world At the same time it gives the agency the authority to enter into so called safeguards agreements with individual nations or groups of nations to ensure that nuclear materials equipment or facilities are not used to produce nuclear weapons The IAEA s mission and its safeguards responsibilities were extended with the enactment in 1970 of the Treaty on the Non Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons also known as the Non Proliferation Treaty or NPT The Treaty requires non nuclear weapon states that are parties to the accord to enter into safeguards agreements with the IAEA covering all nuclear materials on their territory e g uranium and plutonium whether in forms directly usable for weapons or forms that require additional processing before becoming usable in weapons
