From Stage to Screen Shuang Wang, 2023-05-16 Chinese martial arts cinema is held to be a synthesis drawing on artistic conventions of traditional Chinese theatre Film sound and music perform as the legitimate heirs of some of the aesthetic ideas and norms of traditional Chinese theatre This book critically examines the history of this under explored field of inquiry from a theoretically comparative perspective demonstrating that the musical codes drawn from traditional theatre are a constantly changing component integral to Chinese martial arts cinema It explores the interaction between traditional Chinese theatre and Chinese martial arts cinema in how the musical codes of the former have shaped the aesthetics of the latter uniquely This departs from conventional existing studies that focus on adaptation The book's historical and theoretical approach connects film theatre and music and re-defines the status of distinctive domains of filmic expression grounding theatre as the pivot or hinge of film aesthetics The book proffers this unique angle of research to rethink and re-imagine film sound and audiovisual synchronisation Primarily intended for scholars in Chinese cinema film music Chinese theatre and visual culture this monograph also presents introductory and comprehensive material for undergraduate and graduate level courses in film and media studies film music Chinese cinema and Chinese theatre

Grammatology of Images Sigrid Weigel, 2022-08-16 Grammatology of Images radically alters how we approach images Instead of asking for the history power or essence of images Sigrid Weigel addresses imaging as such The book considers how something visible gets transformed into an image Weigel scrutinizes the moment of mis-en-scène of making an appearance and the process of concealment that accompanies any imaging Weigel reinterprets Derrida's and Freud's concept of the trace as that which must be thought before something exists In doing so she illuminates the threshold between traces and iconic images between something immaterial and its pictorial representation Chapters alternate between general accounts of the line the index the effigy and the cult image and case studies from the history of science art politics and religion involving faces as indicators of emotion caricatures as effigies of defamation and angels as embodiments of transcendental ideas Weigel's approach to images illuminates fascinating unexpected correspondences between premodern and contemporary image practices between the history of religion and the modern sciences and between things that are and are not understood as art
