Reynolds,1993-01-01 Constructive Living brings together two psychotherapies Morita and Naikan and their associated lifeways Both therapies were developed in this century but their roots extend back hundreds of years in East Asian history Morita was a professor of psychiatry at Jikei University School of Medicine in Tokyo Yoshimoto was a successful businessman who retired to become a lay priest in Nara Morita s method has its origins in Zen Buddhist psychology and Yoshimoto s Naikan has its origins in Jodo Shinshu

Buddhist psychology Neither of these systems requires that one believe in Buddhism or have faith in anything other than one's experience They work as well for Christians and Moslems and Jews as for Buddhists Both are built on the naturalistic observations of humans and careful introspection of their founders Constructive Living isn't mystical or oriental but practical and human Flowing Bridges, Quiet Waters David K. Reynolds, 1989-01-01 This book is the first to discuss experiences of the Morita and Naikan ways of life in the Western World Although Morita and Naikan are therapies perspectives on neurotic habits and their correction the vision is educational rather than medical The approach offers a way of acknowledging feelings while engaging in constructive living With roots in Zen the principles of this constructive living were formulated over 80 years ago by Shoma Morita a Japanese psychiatrist Like Zen these principles are thoroughly grounded in the reality of the here and now Morita's methods are aimed at the person who suffers from anxiety shyness phobias and obsessions that often manifest in physical symptoms such as headaches insomnia stomach disorders and heart palpitations However the techniques are available and beneficial to people at widely different stages of self development not just to those whose lives are plagued by neurotic suffering Reynolds offers a look at the adaptations necessary to transform and transport these Japanese methods into techniques useful to Westerners Cultural psychological insights are presented by the author who is both an anthropologist and clinician Flowing Bridges offers a unique case study of directed change of a psychotherapeutic system What is Eastern what is Western and what is commonly human becomes more clear from this example of importation of Japanese ideas into the West For psychotherapists there are extensive accounts of hands on treatment methods For those interested in adding these very effective techniques the first person accounts of a variety of contributors will be helpful
