

Plays Description of Contents

Drama in the young learner classroom 2

Useful hints on using drama in the young learner teaching environment. Includes examples of lead-in tasks to prepare pupils for acting in the classroom, hints on what to remember, and stages in planning a performance, as well as examples of follow-up activities.

Outlines of the plays & language coverage 4

Short summaries of the plots of the different plays and the key characters in each, plus an outline of the grammatical structures and vocabulary in each play.

Plays

Eight progressively more advanced plays, representing three genres: Forest Tales (3 plays), Fairy Tales (3 plays), and Culture Plays (2 plays). The plays are preceded by a list of characters and include stage directions to help organise a class performance. Each play is divided into scenes, which breaks down the play into manageable parts to teach and perform. The notes include suggestions for props, which can either be supplied by the teacher or made in class. They also include suggestions for adding to or changing the settings supplied for each genre.

Photocopiable characters

Three sets of photocopiable cut-out characters for pupils to act out dialogues from the plays, or put on their own performances in small groups rather than on stage. (These are in addition to the pop-out characters.)
