Rainey, 1991-12-15 In the summer of 1922 Ezra Pound viewed the church of San Francesco in Rimini Italy for the first time Commonly known as the Tempio Malatestiano the edifice captured his imagination for the rest of his life Lawrence S Rainey here recounts an obsession that links together the whole of Pound's poetic career and thought Written by Pound in the months following his first visit the four poems grouped as The Malatesta Cantos celebrate the church and the man who sponsored its construction Sigismondo Malatesta Upon receiving news of the building's devastation by Allied bombings in 1944 Pound wrote two more cantos that invoked the event as a rallying point for the revival of fascist Italy These forbidden cantos were excluded from collected editions of his works until 1987 Pound even announced an abortive plan in 1958 to build a temple inspired by the church and in 1963 at the age of eighty he returned to Rimini to visit the Tempio Malatestiano one last haunting time Drawing from hundreds of unpublished materials Rainey explores the intellectual heritage that surrounded the church Pound's relation to it and the interpretation of his work by modern critics The Malatesta Cantos which have been called one of the decisive turning points in modern poetics and the most dramatic moment in The Cantos here engender an intricate allegory of Pound's entire career the central impulses of literary modernism the growth of intellectual fascism and the failure of critical culture in the twentieth century Included are two color illustrations from the 1925 edition of Pound's cantos and numerous black and white photographs Census of India, 1911 India. Census Commissioner, 1912 Law, Christianity and Modernism in Islamic Society Union européenne des arabisants et islamisants. Congress, 1998 This volume presents part of the Proceedings of the 18th Congress of the Union Européenne des Arabisants et Islamisants in particular those papers dealing with the three main themes of the congress continuity and development in Islamic Law Christianity and Modernism in 18th and 19th Century Islam It ranges from studies about sari'a in the Koran in early Shi'ite Islam to its applications in modern countries like Kuwait The Christian element in the Islamic world is not only analysed from a theological viewpoint much attention is also given to Arab translations of the Bible and to the juridical social and political status of the Christians as reflected in their contacts with the West and in Christian Arab literature Finally a series of studies focuses on modernism taking newspaper articles cartoons and political satire as their main sources as well as theatre and schoolbooks Classical Reception and Children's Literature Owen Hodgkinson, Helen Lovatt, 2018-01-30 Reception studies have transformed the classics Many more literary and cultural texts are now regarded as valid for classical study And within this process of widening children's literature has in its turn emerged as being increasingly important Books written for children now comprise one of the largest and most prominent bodies of texts to engage with the classical world with an audience that constantly changes as it grows up This innovative volume wrestles with that very characteristic of change which is so fundamental to children's literature showing how significant the classics as well as classically inspired fiction and verse have been in tackling the adolescent challenges posed by metamorphosis. Chapters address such themes as the use made by C. S. Lewis in The Horse and his Boy of Apuleius' The Golden Ass; how Ovidian myth frames the Narnia stories; classical nonsense in Edward Lear's Pan as a powerful symbol of change in children's literature; for instance in The Wind in the Willows; the transformative power of the Orpheus myth; and how works for children have handled the teaching of the classics.
