

"Please pass the salt."

"Please pass the salt", is a phrase heard in almost every home during almost every meal. We like to salt our food. But did you know that some people throw salt over their shoulder for good luck and others believe that salt and bread will bring good luck to a new home?

Thousands of years ago, hunters and fishermen used salt to keep their fish and meat fresh. When people started farming, salt was used to give flavor to their produce. Even today, salt is important to our diet but be careful because too much salt can cause high blood pressure and heart problems.

The word salary which means - payment for work done or wages, comes from the Latin word for salt. People were often paid in salt instead of money because salt was considered more valuable.

Salt comes from the seas and oceans and sometimes it is mined from under the ground. Israel's Dead Sea - the saltiest sea in the world supplies a lot of salt.

Salt is also important in the production of medicines, soaps, detergents and making glass. In many countries salt is even used to melt the ice on slippery roads during the winter to make driving safer.

So next time be more careful and

"DON'T SPILL THE SALT."
