Writing Plague Alfred Thomas,2022-04-22 Writing Plague Language and Violence from the Black Death to COVID 19 brings a holistic and comparative perspective to plague writing from the later Middle Ages to the twenty first century It argues that while the human hardware has changed enormously between the medieval past and the present urbanization technology mass warfare and advances in medical science the human software emotional and psychological reactions to the shock of pandemic has remained remarkably similar across time Through close readings of works by medieval writers like Guillaume de Machaut Giovanni Boccaccio and Geoffrey Chaucer in the fourteenth century select plays by Shakespeare and modern plague fiction and film Alfred Thomas convincingly demonstrates psychological continuities between the Black Death and COVID 19 In showing how in times of plague human beings repress their fears and fantasies and displace them onto the threatening other Thomas highlights the danger of scapegoating vulnerable minority groups such as Asian Americans and Jews in today s America This wide ranging study will thus be of interest not only to medievalists but also to students of modernity as well as the general reader

Reading Women in Late Medieval Europe Alfred Thomas,2016-04-29 Although Chaucer is typically labeled as the Father of English Literature evidence shows that his work appealed to Europe and specifically European women Rereading the Canterbury Tales Thomas argues that Chaucer imagined Anne of Bohemia wife of famed Richard II as an ideal reader an aspect that came to greatly affect his writing Anne's Bohemia Alfred Thomas,1998 Ten chapters examine aspects of medieval Czech literature with particular emphasis on women readers and subjects and the influence of the church Individual manuscripts examined include The Dalimil Chronicle The Ointment Seller The Legend of Saint Procopius The Life of St Catherine The New Council and The Weaver The Wycliffite Woman and The Dispute between Prague and Kutn Hora

The Gender of Death Karl S. Guthke,1999 Why is it that in some cultures and times literature folklore and art commonly represent death as a man in others as a woman Karl S Guthke shows that these choices which often contradict the grammatical gender of the word death in the language concerned are neither arbitrary nor accidental In earlier centuries the gender of the figure of death contributed to the interpretation of biblical narrative in particular whether the original sin was that of Adam or Eve and also reflected the importance of the classical figure of Thanatos More recently the gender of death as angel lover or bride whether terrifying or welcome has carried powerful psychological and social connotations Tracing the gender of representations of death in art and literature from medieval times to the present day Guthke offers astonishing new insights into the nature and perception of the Western self in its cultural intellectual and literary context Death and the Plowman or, The Bohemian Plowman Johannes von Saaz,2020-05-01 This dialogue about death from the year 1400 has no peer in early German Renaissance literature Ernest Kirrmann presents an English translation of the German classic as well as a preface by Alois Bernt giving an introduction to the context and significance of the work The text is accompanied by five woodcuts reproduced from the earliest known printed version of the German original
