Rollins,John E. O'Connor,2011-01-23 Offering both in depth analyses of specific films and overviews of the industry's output Hollywood's Indian provides insightful characterizations of the depiction of the Native Americans in film This updated edition includes a new chapter on Smoke Signals the groundbreaking independent film written by Sherman Alexie and directed by Chris Eyre Taken as a whole the essays explore the many ways in which these portrayals have made an impact on our collective cultural life

Smoke Signals Joanna Hearne, 2012-12-01 Smoke Signals is a historical milestone in Native American filmmaking Released in 1998 and based on a short story collection by Sherman Alexie it was the first wide release feature film written directed coproduced and acted by Native Americans The most popular Native American film of all time Smoke Signals is also an innovative work of cinematic storytelling that demands sustained critical attention in its own right Embedded in Smoke Signals's universal story of familial loss and renewal are uniquely Indigenous perspectives about political sovereignty Hollywood's long history of misrepresentation and the rise of Indigenous cinema across the twentieth and twenty first centuries Joanna Hearne's work foregrounds the voices of the filmmakers and performers in interviews with Alexie and director Chris Eyre among others to explore the film's audiovisual and narrative strategies for speaking to multiple audiences In particular Hearne examines the filmmakers' appropriation of mainstream American popular culture forms to tell a Native story Focusing in turn on the production and reception of the film and issues of performance authenticity social justice and environmental history within the film's text and context this in depth introduction and analysis expands our understanding and deepens our enjoyment of a Native cinema landmark

Classical Projections Eleni Palis, 2022 Quotations are a standard way that the humanities make meaning the pull quote epigraph and quotation are standard for citing evidence and invoking and interrogating authority in both literary and scholarly writing However film studies has yet to seriously examine how moving images can quote one another convening interaction and creating new knowledge across time Classical Projections offers film quotation as a new concept for understanding how preexisting moving image fragments are reframed and re viewed within subsequent films As a visual corollary to literary quotation film quotations embed film fragments in on screen movie screens Though film quotations have appeared since silent cinema Classical Projections focuses on quotations of classical Hollywood film mainstream American studio production 1915 1950 as quoted in post classical Hollywood roughly 1960 to present This strategic historical frame asks how does post classical cinema visualize its awareness of coming after a classical or golden age How do post classical filmmakers claim or disavow classical history How do historically disenfranchised post classical filmmakers whether by gender sexuality or race grapple with exclusionary and stereotype ridden canons As a constitutive element of post classical authorship film quotations amass and manufacture classical Hollywood in retrospective highly strategic ways By revealing how quotational tellings of film history build and embolden exclusionary myopic canons Classical Projections uncovers opportunities to construct more capacious cultural memory

Imagic Moments Lee Schweninger, 2013-05-01 In Indigenous North American film Native Americans tell their own stories and thereby challenge a range of political and historical contradictions including egregious misrepresentations by Hollywood Although Indians in film have long been studied especially as characters in Hollywood westerns Indian film itself has received relatively little scholarly attention In Imagic Moments Lee Schweninger offers a much needed corrective examining films in which the major inspiration the source material and the acting are essentially Native Schweninger looks at a selection of mostly narrative fiction films from the United States and Canada and places them in historical and generic contexts Exploring films such as Powwow Highway Smoke Signals and Skins he argues that in and of themselves these films constitute and in fact emphatically demonstrate forms of resistance and stories of survival as they talk back to Hollywood Self representation itself can be seen as a valid form of resistance and as an aspect of a cinema of sovereignty in which the Indigenous peoples represented are the same people who engage in the filming and who control the camera Despite their low budgets and often nonprofessional acting Indigenous films succeed in being all the more engaging in their own right and are indicative of the complexity vibrancy and survival of myriad contemporary Native cultures

American Road Narratives Ann Brigham, 2015-06-29 The freedom to go anywhere and become anyone has profoundly shaped our national psyche Transforming our sense of place and identity whether in terms of social and economic status or race and ethnicity or gender and sexuality American mobility is perhaps nowhere more vividly captured than in the image of the open road From pioneer trails to the latest car commercial the road looms large as a form of expansiveness and opportunity Too often it is the celebratory idea of the road as a free floating zone moving the traveler beyond the typical concerns of space and time that dominates the discussion Rather than thinking of mobility as an escape from cultural tensions however Ann Brigham proposes that we understand mobility as a mode of engagement with them She explores the genre of road narratives to show how mobility both thrives on and attempts to manage shifting conflicts about space and society in the United States From the earliest transcontinental automobile narratives from the 1910s through classics like Jack Kerouac's On the Road and the film Thelma Louise up to post 9 11 narratives Brigham traces the ways in which mobility has been imagined created and interrogated over the past century and shows how mobility promises and threatens to incorporate the outsider and to blur boundaries Bringing together textual and cultural analysis theories of spatiality and sociohistorical frameworks this book offers an invigoratingly different view of mobility and a new understanding of the road narrative's importance in American culture Choice Outstanding Academic Title from American Library Association

Unsettling Sights Corinn Columpar, 2010-03-11 Unsettling Sights The Fourth World on Film examines the politics of representing Aboriginality in the process bringing frequently marginalized voices and visions issues and debates into the limelight Corinn Columpar uses film theory postcolonial theory and Indigenous theory to frame her discussion of the cinematic construction and transnational circulation of Aboriginality The result is a broad interdisciplinary analysis of how Indigeneity is represented in cinema supported by more than twenty rigorous and theoretically informed case studies of contemporary feature films by both First and Fourth World filmmakers in the United States Canada New Zealand and

Australia Columpar relies heavily on textual analysis of the films but also explores contextual issues in filmmaking such as funding personnel modes of production and means of distribution Part one of Unsettling Sights focuses on contact narratives in which the Aboriginal subject is constructed in reactive response to a colonizing or invading presence Films such as The Piano and The Proposition wherein a white man goes native and The New World and Map of the Human Heart which approach contact from the perspective of an Aboriginal character serve as occasions to examine the ways in which Aboriginal identities are negotiated within dominant cinema Part two shifts the focus from contact narratives to films that seek to define Aboriginality on its own terms with reference to a lost homeland and or Indigenous practices of hi story telling while texts such as Once Were Warriors and Smoke Signals foster an engagement with issues of deterritorialization relocation and urbanization discussion of beDevil Atanarjuat and The Business of Fancydancing among others bring questions of voice translation and the relationship between cinema and oral tradition to the forefront Unsettling Sights is the first significant scholarly examination of Aboriginality and cinema in an international context and will be invaluable to scholars and students in many fields including cinema studies anthropology critical race studies cultural studies and postcolonial studies
