Divided School Peter Woods, 2012-05-16 In this ethnographic study of a secondary school in the UK the author presents an incisive account of school life from the various points of view of the pupils teachers and parents He describes and analyses major areas of experience and methods of adapting to school for both the children and their teachers school experience is shown to be widely varying from boredom despair and humiliation to gaiety exultation and comradeship some of it officially and some of it unofficially sponsored The description reveals a number of marked and interpenetrating divisions within schools between teachers and pupils parents and teachers parents and children and between pupils themselves These divisions are explored analysed and related both to institutional factors and to factors outside the school The study suggests how these factors influence pupil and teacher strategies and hence how the details of school life relates to wider society

Learning Without Limits Susan Hart, Annabelle Dixon, Mary Jane Drummond, Donald McIntyre, 2004-03-16 The style and language used by the authors make the book readable and therefore a book that practising teachers can actively use as a guide to improve their practice it is amply demonstrated that teaching can and should be an activity whose primary focus is to enhance students learning capacity and not limit it Journal of Inservice Education Why do some teachers insist on teaching without recourse to judgements about ability What are the key principles on which they draw as they organize and provide for learning What is the significance of their alternative approach for classrooms in the 21st century This book explores ways of teaching that are free from determinist beliefs about ability In a detailed critique of the practices of ability labelling and ability focussed teaching Learning without Limits examines the damage these practices can do to young people teachers and the curriculum Drawing on a research project at the University of Cambridge the book features nine vivid case studies from Year 1 to Year 11 that describe how teachers have developed alternative practices despite considerable pressure on them and on their schools and classrooms The authors analyze these case studies and identify the key concept of transformability as a distinguishing feature of these teachers approach They construct a model of pedagogy based on transformability the mind set that children s futures as learners are not pre determined and that teachers can help to strengthen and ultimately transform young people s capacity to learn through the choices they make The book shows how transformability based teaching can play a central role in constructing an alternative improvement agenda This book will inspire teachers student teachers lecturers and policy makers as well as everyone who has a stake in how contemporary education and practice affect children's future lives and life chances

Children's Book Review Index Dana Ferguson, 2007-08 The Children's Book Review Index contains review citations to give your students and researchers access to reviewers' comments and opinions on thousands of books, periodicals, books on tape and electronic media intended and/or recommended for children through age 10. School Leadership and Education System Reform Toby Greany, Peter Earley, 2021-08-26 How can school leaders shape organisations that offer consistently high quality, rounded and equitable education in the context of rapid change? How can wider education systems support and encourage all schools to succeed in this way? What are the challenges and opportunities involved? What can we learn from existing evidence and research? School Leadership and Education System Reform considers the ways in which school leadership and its practice has changed and developed in response to a rapidly changing educational context over the last decade. This new edition is substantially revised and updated with ten completely new chapters. It includes contributions from a range of leading thinkers and researchers in the field of educational leadership and management. Theoretically and conceptually informed, the contributors draw on recent empirical research studies into leadership, learning and system reform in England and more widely to explore the key issues for contemporary school leadership and management in high autonomy, high accountability systems. New chapters look at system governance and lateral accountability in self-improving school systems, leading curriculum development and accelerating progress for disadvantaged children in schools, effective deployment of teaching assistants, leadership for inclusion, school collaboration, partnerships and system leadership, securing improvement at scale across multiple schools and across localities, new conceptions of leadership including ethical and invitational leadership. School Leadership and Education System Reform provides accessible but research and theory informed chapters, each of which includes summaries and suggestions for further reading.

Never Bury Me There Elina Martin, 2010-01-12 horror fiction about a man who left his place of birth because terrible things were taking place there. The things were so horrific he feared for his body to be buried there after his death. Dead bodies were used for rituals. Freedom's wife is a character who almost became one of them but after getting the worst kind of training which enabled her to get rich using voodoo she finally used her new acquired powers to free the remaining residents from the evil of that place Read more and enjoy Changing Schools Lynda Measor, Peter Woods, 2019-12-09 Changing schools at 11 or 12 is a critical often traumatic event in a pupil's career Earlier studies had looked at this transitional stage from the schools point of view in the light of institutional aims and objectives Originally published in 1984 this richly detailed and readable study looks at it from the pupils point of view it illustrates their perceptions of the transfer their anxieties and their experiences The book is the result of a research project in which children transferring from a typical middle school to a typical comprehensive in a Midlands town were observed over a period of eighteen months The authors reveal various ways in which children adjust to a large more complex school organisation to new forms of discipline and authority and new demands in school work They emphasise the significance of teenage culture during this period and identify an important area of interplay between school culture and sub culture They pay special attention to gender identities and the ways in which these affect pupils responses to different subjects in the curriculum Finally they consider the theoretical and policy implications of their survey and make positive recommendations for improving school and classroom practice at both primary and secondary level Supreme Court Appellate Division Third Dept. Vol. 2408, 1936 Valuing and Educating Young People Jeremy Harvey, 2006 George Lyward had a gift for working with disturbed young people and the therapeutic community he ran earned an international reputation for its success in rehabilitating adolescents who were excluded from school This book explains his ideas on education and emotional development and shows how his methods are relevant to contemporary practice
